City Council Completing $500,000 Industrial Project

Cold Storage Plant Being Underwritten By Montreal House

All Details Are Completed Except Signing of the Agreement by City, Mayor Is Informed in Telegram From Company—Hanson Bros. Give Satisfactory Underwriting Terms

By-Law Necessary Before Council Is Authorized to Sign Agreement

EVERY detail in connection with the new $500,000 cold storage plant has been completed by the Montreal firm with which the city has been negotiating, it was stated in a wire read by Mayor J. Carl Pendray at the special meeting of the City Council held yesterday afternoon. All that remains is for the city to sign the agreement, the firm telegraphed. It was stated that the strongest investment bankers in Canada had been secured to head the proposition, namely Hanson Bros. The Bank of Montreal was given as a reference for this financial house.

The engineer's plans have been checked, specifications and preliminary underwriting signed, the Mayor informed the Council. It was decided at the close of the meeting to ask Mr. Roger Pinneo to wire for the agreement so that the Council could discuss it before closing the deal. Mr. Pinneo and City Solicitor H. S. Pringle will probably be sent to Montreal to complete the agreement. The Mayor's presence in Montreal next week was urged by the company so that the agreement could be signed. The Mayor, however, said he would be held here with the grain elevator project.

PAPERS SIGNED

Hanson Bros., who are arranging the financing of the cold storage plant, including a working capital, is one of the strongest banking houses in Canada. It has agreed to underwrite the project on terms satisfactory to the firm with which the city is dealing. The preliminary underwriting papers were signed yesterday.

The tentative proposal of the city as a basis for the cold storage agreement is that this city guarantee for a period of ten years the payment annually of an amount equal to, but not exceeding seven per cent a year of the capital cost of the cold storage plant, to be constructed at Ogden Point. The capital cost is not to exceed $500,000 and is to include an amount not to exceed $75,000 to cover preliminary expenses, cost of financing, $2,000 repayment to the city for obtaining lease and $25,000 as interest charge during the period of construction.

The ten year period is to commence at the date of completion of the plant. If the capital cost of construction of the plant together with the sum of $75,000, shall be a lesser amount than $500,000 the city's guarantee shall be limited to seven per cent on the lesser amount. The net dividends made in any year by the company operating the plant shall be applied toward the payment of the city's liability and in the reduction thereof in such year.

TO SECURE SUBSIDY

The city also agrees to use its best efforts in conjunction with the company's efforts to obtain the Dominion Government Cold Storage subsidy. If the subsidy is granted, then the amount shall be deducted from the sum of $500,000 or from the lesser amount already mentioned, and the city's guarantee will not exceed the seven per cent.

DRYS TAKE FIELD IN B.C. ELECTION

May Put Third Candidate in Field if Two Already Standing for Election Reject Prohibition Views

LIQUOR REPEAL VOTE ADVOCATED

VANCOUVER, May 6.—Unless one or both the candidates in North Okanagan commits himself to supporting a referendum on repeal of the government liquor act, Rev. R. J. McIntyre, secretary of the British Columbia Prohibition Association, said today that a third candidate pledged to prohibition was a possibility in the forthcoming by-election.

Questionaires have been submitted to Dr. K. C. MacDonald, Liberal, and Mr. W. F. Kennedy, Conservative candidate, asking for their stand on such a referendum and on their willingness to support legislation to give effect to a prohibition policy if the referendum should carry, said Mr. McIntyre.

"Mr. Kennedy has already answered in a manner not entirely unsatisfactory," he said, "but the answers will not be published unless circumstances warrant. We don't want to get into the election if we can help it," said Mr. McIntyre, "but we do not intend to let the occasion pass without obtaining a declaration. The government granted a referendum after three and a half years of prohibition. We have had six years of government control. Surely it is only fair that we should now be given the right to test the feeling of the people."

Mr. McIntyre said that a series of conventions of prohibition forces would be held in Greater Vancouver within the next few weeks at dates to be announced shortly.

SEATTLE HUNTING FOR WOMAN LEPER

Escaped Member of Eastern Colony Reveals Presence Through Post-office—City Combed for Fugitive

SEATTLE, May 6.—In search of a woman leper who is believed to have arrived in Seattle recently, police officials of the United States Department of Justice, immigration officials and members of the public health service combed this city today. The leper victim was reported to have escaped from a leper colony in Louisiana three years ago and never to have been apprehended. During her incarceration she received pension cheques from the Government.

A few days ago Government officials in Washington, D.C., received a letter from the woman, which bore the Seattle postmark. In it she requested them to forward her the pension care of general delivery. Instead the authorities wired the Seattle officials, who instituted the search immediately.

BIRTHDAY DATE IS UNCHANGED IN CONFERENCE

Interesting Point Is Made That Present Area of Province Embraced Four Colonies and Territories

CONTROVERSY IS STILL UNSETTLED

No Hope of Mainland Accepting Decision Held Out by Speakers at Historical Association Gathering

A ROUND table conference, at which was represented the B.C. Historical Association, which took the initiative in calling the conference, and various other bodies presumed to be interested in the matter, tonight reaffirmed the accuracy of the resolution of the society passed on June 8, 1926, respecting the birthday of the province. This is March 11, 1850, the date upon which Governor Blanshard read the proclamation here appointing him Governor of the Colony of Vancouver Island, the first Crown colony to be created on the Pacific Coast.

SUGGESTS COMPROMISE

At the meeting it was pointed out that there was no question that the decision would not be accepted on the Mainland, and a proposal was made by Rev. J. C. Goodfellow to defer a decided pronouncement upon the subject, letting the matter stand with the announcement of the various historic dates connected with the establishment of government on this coast, and leaving those interested to celebrate all of them or any of them they saw fit to so mark.

The position taken by Mr. Justice Martin, who moved the original resolution setting out the date of the birthday of the province, was that a historical society must be looked to to give actual facts. It was not a matter of altering facts to suit any sentiment that might exist. The facts were all that counted with such a society, and unless it were prepared to act along this line its purposes were not being fulfilled.

This view was taken by others, and especially by Mr. V. L. Denton, who alluded to the fact that if the contention of the Mainland on this matter were to go unchallenged, and become established in the minds of the people, that it would result in ten years' time in the children of the schools believing

U. S. TO ENFORCE NICARAGUA PEACE

FORCIBLE DISARMAMENT IS THREATENED IF LIBERALS ARE STUBBORN

Truce Declared to Give General Time to Persuade Troops to Lay Down Their Arms

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 6.—In support of the statement of the Liberal general, Jose Maria Moncada, that the United States had threatened to use force to disarm the Liberal forces in Nicaragua, the Liberal peace delegates made public today a letter written by Henry L. Stimson, personal representative of President Coolidge. The letter, addressed to General Moncada, says President Coolidge has authorized American forces "to accept the custody of the arms of those who are willing to lay them down, including the Government, and to disarm forcibly those who will not do so."

WASHINGTON, May 6.—A truce between Liberal and Conservative factions in Nicaragua until tomorrow has been declared to permit General Moncada, Liberal commander, to persuade his troops to lay down their arms.

Churches and Homes In Mississippi Town Destroyed by Storm

MEMPHIS, May 6.—A severe wind and rain storm struck Tunica, Miss., today, destroying two negro churches, numerous small houses and flooding the streets, T. J. Jordan, editor of The Tunica Times-Democrat, told the Associated Press over the telephone.

Trees, chimneys and window glasses in the residential section suffered the brunt of the storm, but no one was injured, Mr. Jordan said.

NOTED INVENTOR CALLED BY DEATH

Mr. Hudson Maxim, Author and Explosives Expert, Dies in Seventy-Fourth Year—Long Ill

CLAIMED EINSTEIN THEORY DISCOVERY

MR. HUDSON MAXIM

LAKE HOPATCONG, N.J., May 6.—Hudson Maxim, inventor, author and explosives expert, died at his home at Maxim Park late today of cancer of the stomach and anaemia. He was seventy-four years old. Only a nurse and his wife were at the bedside when Mr. Maxim died.

Mr. H. D. Maxim, an only son, of Woodbury, N.J., started for his home before death came at 5:45 o'clock and messages failed to reach him soon enough for his return here.

Mr. Maxim enjoyed good health until two years ago when he first began to suffer from anaemia. He became ill while on a tour of Europe. He continued his experiments on his return and last Winter physicians advised a trip to California. He was forced to cut that trip short because of what he called "a combination of nostalgia and anaemia."

Returning on his seventy-fourth birthday, he spent most of the time since in bed. About three months ago, Dr. H. H. Neiden, his family physician, discovered that Mr. Maxim had a cancer of the stomach, but kept the fact from his patient. All hope for his recovery was given up at that time. Last midnight Mr. Maxim lapsed into a coma which continued until death.

The physician and friends reported that about a year before his death Mr. Maxim claimed that he and not Einstein, was the discoverer of the theory of relativity. A pamphlet on the subject remains uncompleted.

FLYERS' FATE REMAINS GRIM OCEAN SECRET

Anxiety Felt for Safety of Two French Airmen on Non-Stop Flight Across the Atlantic

MACHINE UNABLE TO LAND ON SEA

Elimination of Pontoons Are Blamed for Failure—Craft Last Reported 200 Miles off Brazil

PARIS, May 6.—Much anxiety is felt here over the fate of the Paris-Brazil aviators, Captain St. Roman and Commander Mouneyros, who have not been heard from since the reception this morning of a radio message from them that they were within 200 miles of the Brazilian coast on their hop from St. Louis, Senegal, to Pernambuco, Brazil.

News of the flyers was eagerly watched for tonight by the large Latin-American colony in Paris and by French aviation officials, who vainly attempted to stop the flight several days ago. The aviators' action in eliminating the pontoons on their hydro-airplane, converting it into a plane that could descend safely only on land, is blamed here for the non-arrival of the flyers at Pernambuco.

In response to a request from French aviation circles, Rome also reported that no news had been received of the arrival of the aviators.

FLIGHT DELAYED

LE BOURGET, France, May 7.—Every indication is that Captain Charles Nungesser, French transatlantic aviator, has definitely postponed his departure on his projected flight to New York until tomorrow or even later.

At 1 o'clock this morning there were no signs of activity on the flying field here. The plane was locked in its shed and was guarded by only two sentries walking a regular post.

TO MEET AT SEA

PARIS, May 6.—Clifford B. Harmon, of New York, president of the International League of Aviators, the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune said today, is planning to meet the American Bellanca plane in mid-ocean when it attempts to fly across the Atlantic from New York to Paris, to guide the flyers to their goal, Le Bourget. Mr. Harmon, it is said, will use a fast plane.

GRAIN MEN PLAN ONE GREAT POOL

CO-ORDINATION OF PROGRAMMES NECESSARY, CONFERENCE DECIDES

World Organization With Control of Crops in Every Exporting Country Planned When Practicable

KANSAS CITY, May 6.—The 300 delegates to the international wheat pool conference meeting here unanimously adopted a resolution tonight saying that "as soon as practicable the wheat producers of the chief exporting countries of the world should look toward co-ordination of their co-operative programmes.

"This must be preceded by thorough organization of the producers of wheat in each country on a permanent basis," the resolution read, "and such organization must control a substantial percentage of the wheat grown in these countries.

"When these conditions are met, then international co-ordination will give the wheat grower the same control over the marketing of his crop already possessed by other industries and will materially assist in putting agriculture in its rightful place among the other industries of the world."

Big Oil Refinery Will Be Built at Wainwright

TORONTO, May 6.—Work will commence at once on construction of the first unit at Wainwright, Alberta, of a 10,000-barrel-a-day oil refinery, R. A. Price, president of the Price Development & Refining Company, announced here. The first unit will have a capacity of 1,000 barrels a day. The remainder of the plant, he said, would be established in either Vancouver or Saskatoon.

Five Factories Destroyed By Los Angeles Fire

LOS ANGELES, May 6.—A general alarm fire, which necessitated every available piece of apparatus before it was controlled, destroyed five factories and a garage on Long Beach Avenue here today. The damage was more than $175,000.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION LEVELS OFFICE BLOCK; DEATH TOLL UNCERTAIN

Forty of Sixty Occupants Injured When Sudden Blow Brings Two-Story Structure Crumbling to Ground—Flooded Cellar Hides Extent of Tragedy —Rescuers Abandon Search for Night

Passers-By Feared Trapped and Drowned Beneath Wrekage of Collapsing Walls

NEW YORK, May 6.—After finding seven bodies among huge concrete blocks of a two-story concrete building which collapsed today following a mysterious explosion, fatigued and drenched workers late tonight decided nothing more could be done until daylight. Severely handicapped by water which filled the cellar from a broken main and which could not be entirely pumped out by the fire engines, workers struggled with the wreckage until long after dark, aided by powerful searchlights.

When the search was given up for the night, all of the sixty occupants of the building had been accounted for, but there remained the possibility that passers-by might have been mutilated or drowned when the walls crumbled and were partly submerged.

The dead are: Florence Cavanaugh, nineteen, stenographer; Elizabeth Loyinger, twenty, stenographer; William E. Kelleher, thirty-two, attorney; Charles J. Quinlan, fifty-five, head of claim department; Charles Malasky, twenty-one, clerk; Frank Surmuhlen, twenty-six, attorney; Robert O'Rourke, twenty-five, clerk.

All were employees of the Yellow Taxi Company, whose offices were housed in the East 23rd Street building.

Of the forty injured none of the eleven who remained at the Bellevue Hospital tonight was considered in a critical condition.

While the investigation gave no clues as to the cause of the explosion, one building inspector said it might have been due to gasoline from the Yellow Taxi garage next door backing up the sewers to the cellars.

100 Natives Killed By Italian Troops

ROME, May 6.—One hundred natives were killed and thousands of camels, horses and sheep captured when Italian troops, supported by an airplane squadron, defeated dissident tribesmen in Cyranica. The Italian losses were small.

The Ministry of Colonies announced today that Italian forces had defeated the natives in a series of important skirmishes at Halugir and Gerdesgerrari.

RESCUERS CHEAT FLOOD TORRENTS

Relief Machine Strains Every Nerve to Prevent Loss of Life in Fight Against Floods in Southern States

THOUSANDS PERCH ON HIGH RIDGES

NEW ORLEANS, May 6.—While a thrilling drama of life-saving was unfolding across inundated Northeastern Louisiana today, engineers directing the forces combating the Mississippi flood adopted a policy of watchful waiting along wide fronts where danger is likely to develop as the crest moves on to the gulf.

Serious situations were reported in some of the flooded sections of the huge funnel between the Mississippi and the Ouachita Rivers, but the relief machine was straining every nerve to prevent any serious loss of life.

Reports received here from many sections of the flood area were that hundreds of persons in remote places were trapped in their homes.

The task of searching them out and taking them to safety was the one upon which the rescue squadron concentrated.

Several thousands are reported on Macon Ridge, which probably soon will be swallowed up by the rushing flood waters, but officials expressed confidence that all of them could be removed before their refuge could be inundated.

STRANGE DEATHS MYSTIFY POLICE

Two Men Die Within Three Hours at Same House—Nothing to Indicate Violence

VANCOUVER, May 6.—Investigation is being conducted by South Vancouver police into two sudden deaths which occurred tonight in the same house.

At 6:30 o'clock John Clapperton, forty-nine, was found dead in his bed by his roommate, J. Watt. There was nothing about the body to indicate violent death, according to police.

Three hours later the authorities were again called to the house after Phillip Webber, seventy-three, had collapsed in his room and died before medical aid could be summoned.

Webber is said to be the owner of the house.

British House Rejects Unemployment Measure Third Successive Time

LONDON, May 6.—For the third consecutive session the House of Commons today rejected the Labor bill for "prevention of unemployment." The vote was 177 to 112 against the measure.

The bill provided that £10,000,000 be set aside annually for state enterprises, such as reforestation and drainage, on which the unemployed could get work. The Government maintained that the bill served no practical purpose which was not already being carried out.

Local Bands Win Applause At Bellingham

Due to the fact that there were only two Highland pipe bands taking part in the parade in connection with the Tulip Festival at Bellingham, the judges yesterday decided to split the first prize and cancel the competition in this class. The Canadian Scottish Junior Pipe Band thus took a ranking equal first.

Great interest was aroused here in the Victoria City Temple's Prize Band taking part in the competition for massed bands, but on account of the late arrival of the Princess Louise at Bellingham, the band was unable to take part in the parade, and for this lost twenty points. The late arrival of the Louise was due to the fact that she left at 9:30 o'clock instead of 9 a.m. as in previous years.

On actual musical test, omitting handicaps, the band obtained 153½ marks, the winners, Black Diamond, a Washington organization, obtaining 156 marks, which, with allowances, brought the winners' aggregate to 191 marks.

BORDER CITIES URGE RETALIATION ON U.S.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—"Strong, courageous and united action" to secure a continuation of the present border immigration arrangement pending an international conference was demanded by a delegation from the border cities of Ontario, which presented a brief to Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister, here today.

The delegation recommended reprisals by the Canadian Government against foreign-born citizens of the United States employed in Canada in the event that no agreement is reached.

E. G. Odette, Liberal member of Parliament for East Essex; Mayor Jackson, of Windsor; Mayor Daniels, of Walkerville, and others comprised the delegation.

The delegation urged that the "rights of His Majesty's subjects under the Jay treaty or other treaties" be settled once and for all.

New C.P.R. Director Retains P.G.E. Post

VANCOUVER, May 6.—Selection by the Canadian Pacific Railway of W. J. Blake Wilson, of Vancouver, as a director of the company will not interfere with his services as a member of the board of directors of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. Mr. Wilson has informed the Province that he will continue to serve on the directorate of the B.C. Government-owned road.

SETTLEMENT BLOCKED

LOS ANGELES, May 6.—Efforts to effect a property settlement in Lita Grey Chaplin's suit for divorce from Charles Chaplin apparently were blocked today as attorneys for the screen comedian refused to consider an offer to settle on a cash basis of $650,000.

PACIFIC EXPLORATIONS ARE MADE TOPIC OF ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

Mr. V. L. Denton, addressing the members of the British Columbia Historical Society last evening, upon the subject of "Explorations on the Pacific," said that he often felt that there might be a different viewpoint taken by residents of this coast. Many who came from the Old Country and from Eastern Canada were inclined he said, too often to stand with their backs to the Pacific Ocean, as it were, and look east.

He felt that they might well look to the Pacific with its wonderful possibilities in the line of development of the country. The ports of the Pacific were just as much outlets for Canada as were the ports on the Atlantic Ocean.

His lecture tracing the history of the exploration of the Pacific Coast, more especially this part which lies within the Province of British Columbia, was made especially interesting by a series of lantern views, which were handled by Major F. V. Longstaff.

B.C. BADLY RUN SAYS DR. TOLMIE

No Business Managed as Province Has Been Could Possibly Survive, Conservative Chief Asserts

ECONOMY IGNORED, LEADER DECLARES

VANCOUVER, May 6.—"No business could be run as British Columbia has been run in recent years and survive," declared Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., Provincial Conservative leader, addressing the South Vancouver Conservative Association this evening at a reception held in his honor.

It was the function of government, he said, to administer economically and efficiently, and so to bring the largest net measure of return to the people.

"The country should be run for the people in it," he said, "but the reverse has prevailed in recent years. The administration has been wasteful and inefficient. There has been a large increase in taxes. Many projects have cost more than their original estimates, such as Sumas, Merville and Oliver, and a number of recent road contracts."

Dr. Tolmie said he believed in opening up the country, developing the resources and in practising economy, but not in a niggardly sense—only to the extent of securing value for money invested. He reiterated his statement that having accepted the party leadership he intended to stay on the job, and pleaded for unity.

If the Conservative party was to get into power it must organize and co-operate so as to present a united front, he said.

BIRTHDAY DATE IS UNCHANGED IN CONFERENCE

that the first Crown colony on this coast began at Fort Langley in the year 1858.

A MISNOMER

In his opinion the society was interested only in getting at the truth of the matter and establishing historic facts. What it was proposed to celebrate on the Mainland was really the union of New Caledonia and Vancouver Island.

In connection with the matter an interesting review of the historic facts was made by Mr. Justice Martin, who brought forward some new features connected with the history of what is now British Columbia.

He said that when Governor Douglas was inaugurated as Governor at Fort Langley there was an impression in existence that the territory embraced all of B.C., as it was at present.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," said His Lordship, who proceeded to read from the statute of 1858 which set out the boundaries of the Crown colony created. These were much more confined than the boundaries of the present province of British Columbia.

Under that Imperial act the territory extended from the United States boundary in the south to the Rocky Mountains on the east and north to Simpson's River, which His Lordship pointed out was the Skeena River. It excluded the Island of Vancouver, which was itself a Crown colony in those days.

By the Stickeen Territories Act of 1862 another colony was created north of the Skeena, under what was known as the Administrator of that Territory. It was not until 1863 that this territory was added to B.C. For five years this northern part of the province therefore was outside the jurisdiction of the Colony of British Columbia.

FOUR AREAS

If they were going to be particular there were therefore on the Pacific Coast three colonies created—Vancouver Island and adjacent islands up to the fifty-second parallel, British Columbia and Stickeen. But in truth there were even four of these divisions. There was the record of Queen Charlotte Island being a separate territory and having a lieutenant-governor, for Sir James Douglas was appointed as such in 1852.

Mr. Justice Martin said that they had therefore the position that in considering birthdays there would be three or four covering certain territories now embraced within what is known as British Columbia. Under these conditions he said that it appeared to him to be the only reasonable thing to recognize the birthday of the first of the Crown colonies included in the larger area as the beginning of the history as far as constituted authority was concerned.

"Why it should be said that as you add to its feet that you should cut off its head is hard to understand," said the speaker.

The difficulty into which the opponents of the date of the resolution ran was due to the fact that they had not studied the statutes involved. It was a peculiar position, he said, that was being created, and in order to avoid rivalries it was proposed to abandon a position that was historically correct. Some said let there be two birthdays. But if that were to be followed, then in view of the other parts that entered into the province why not have four of these birthdays?

His Lordship combated the attempts of some on the Mainland to deprecate the position of Governor Blanshard. This should be denounced in the strongest way. The Governor was duly appointed and duly inaugurated as governor with the attendance of the forces and all the usual pomp. There was some misunderstanding which he referred to with the strong Hudson's Bay Company, but the Governor upheld his authority and was governor.

ORDERS-IN-COUNCIL

As far as the date taken on the Mainland as the one to be observed, he pointed out that there was not the fullest authority for the contention that was made for the date on the ground that it was the date of the union of Vancouver Island and British Columbia. The order-in-council establishing the Crown Colony of British Columbia was dated August 2, 1858. The official induction, as it were, of the appointee to the position of governor was on November 19, 1858. It was a coincidence that the same governor filled both the positions as governor of Vancouver Island and of British Columbia. The union, however, did not take place until November 19, 1866. He produced the official Gazette of that date, in which appeared the proclamation of His Excellency Frederick Seymour, Governor, Commander-in-Chief, etc., which declared that under an act of the Imperial Parliament in which it was set out that upon proclamation of the Governor that the Union of the Colonies of Vancouver Island and of British Columbia should take place, and they should henceforth form one colony. On that date the proclamation was accordingly made, so that the union of the colonies creating the one joint colony of British Columbia dated from November 19, 1866.

Mr. John Hosie said that the facts set out by Mr. Justice Martin were historically correct. These facts would have to be accepted. He, however, felt that the people of the Mainland would not agree to it.

HOW THEORY WORKS OUT

The suggestion was made that if the theory advanced on the Mainland were to be followed, then the birthday of the Dominion of Canada would not date from 1867 but from the date that the last province went into the Confederation.

The fact of the endorsation of the original resolution as to the date of the birthday of the establishment of constituted authority in what is now the Province of British Columbia will be forwarded to various officials and representative organizations.

Being greatly changed—New way discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

OLD-TIME "sanitary pads" are rapidly disappearing, because of a new way called KOTEX, that 8 in 10 better class women now employ.

✓ Kotex discards as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry, no embarrassment of disposal.

Being 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," it permits lightest gowns and frocks without slightest fear. Dance, motor, go about for hours without a moment's doubt. And it deodorizes; thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "KOTEX." Try today and you'll never again risk the uncertainty of old ways.

Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

BRITON DEFENDS SCREEN POLICY

British Ambassador Discusses New Law in Film Stronghold — U.S. Action Not Much Different

PROTECTION GIVEN INFANT INDUSTRY

LOS ANGELES, May 6.—Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, speaking at a luncheon today, set forth his views upon the motion picture industry of Britain as compared with the industry in Hollywood and America's "infant" foreign policy.

"I have seen press articles in this country criticizing the new law lately brought into Parliament in England, giving certain preferences to British films in British theatres," he stated. "Well, perhaps it is all wrong to protect one's infant industries against young and husky giants like these in Hollywood.

UNITED STATES POLICY, TOO

"But," he continued, "I seem to remember that Uncle Sam has not been altogether averse to such a policy in the past, and has not even yet entirely abandoned it when he thinks it necessary."

Speaking of the foreign policy of the United States, the ambassador said: "You citizens of this country have up until recently been in the happy condition of hardly knowing the necessity of a foreign policy.

"You were for generations so busy with your great internal developments that foreign commerce was but a pleasant and exhilarating, but not important, part of the entertainment. So you came to look upon all foreign policies as a nuisance and as filled with traps set by cunning diplomats for poor, innocent Uncle Sam.

"Until lately, I think you were right to have as little to do as possible with foreign policies and to content yourself with guarding the Monroe Doctrine, the open door in China and selling to a hungry world the wheat, meat and cotton which you can raise in such abundance."

INTEREST GROWS IN PARTY MEET

HON. HUGH GUTHRIE ATTACKS GOVERNMENT'S FINANCING RECORD

Ottawa Spending Money Like Drunken Sailors, Conservative Leader Says —Premier Trusting to Luck

LONDON, Ont., May 6.—At the annual meeting of Conservatives of Western Ontario here today, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, discussing the coming Dominion-wide convention for election of a permanent leader, said interest in the convention was growing, but some portions of the West and the Maritimes had not yet caught the spirit of the thing.

The meeting re-elected President Andrew Ingram, of St. Thomas.

Mr. Guthrie attacked the "harum scarum" financing of the King Government, and pointed to Canada's immigration question as most vital to the continued prosperity of the country.

Now, he said, there was more reason than ever for a strong Conservative party. The Government had entered on the wildest course of expenditure of public money he had known in his twenty-seven years as a member.

"They are spending money like drunken sailors," he declared. "On Robb's own showing they are spending more by $20,000,000 than he is going to receive. Let us adopt in Ottawa a scheme for the retirement of our great debts similar to Premier Ferguson's in Toronto. The King Government is trusting too much to luck."

DUKE AND DUCHESS SEE KANGAROO HUNT

British Royal Tourists Resume Journey—Arrive at Adelaide After Visiting Wellington

ADELAIDE, Australia, May 6.—After a most enjoyable time in Wellington and at the lodge of Alan MacFarlane, on the shore of Lake Alexandrina, the Duke and Duchess of York resumed their journey today, arriving here tonight.

The Duke spent the afternoon prior to his departure in kangaroo hunting on horseback, being well in the forefront of the chase. The party, which did not use dogs, caught a kangaroo, which was subsequently released. A son of Mr. MacFarlane secured the prize, leaning from his horse and grasping the kangaroo by the tail.

The Duchess followed the hunt in a motor car and had a thrilling experience when the car ran over a venomous four-foot tiger snake, which Mr. MacFarlane dispatched with his whip. The Duke and Duchess indulged in hydroplaning on Lake Alexandrina.

the first ten years and fixed assessment to produce approximately $3,500 per annum for the next ten years will be granted the company by the city. All necessary water is to be supplied at the rate of six cents per 1,000 gallons.

"Providing that the City Council agrees to recommend to the electors the carrying out of all of the above-mentioned conditions, then the promoting company is to incorporate immediately a company to finance and construct the said cold storage plant and to have sufficient working capital of approximately $200,000 to maintain and operate the same, and to send the necessary engineers to Victoria to report on the proposal," the drafted proposal states.

Construction is to be started within ninety days after the approval by the electors of the necessary by-law.

The city is to undertake to obtain from the Dominion Government a lease for a period of twenty-one years with the privilege of two renewals of twenty-one years each thereafter at a rental not exceeding $1,000.

March is the most rough and blustery of all the months—and quite appropriately so—for it was called after Mars, the war-god of the Romans.

The Saxons gave the name of Lenet-monat to this month because the days then began to exceed the nights in length. When they were converted to Christianity, they called this season the Fast of Lenet.

Lenet also means Spring—so March is the Spring month. The Saxons also called it Hlyd-monat, or stormy month.

Presbyterian Parliament Convening First of June

Programme for General Assembly in Knox Church at Stratford, Ont., Will Be World-Wide in Scope—Reports of Progress Since Division Promised

By FRANK YEIGH

TORONTO, Ont., May 6.—There is one outstanding date in the calendar of a Presbyterian—that of the General Assembly.

The week of this long-established Presbyterian Parliament—the fifty-third in the annals of the Presbyterian Church in Canada—marks the culmination of a year's work and the setting up of progamme and policy for the coming year. Fifty-three means an historic continuity from 1875 when the different branches of this communion united as one church, which has gone from strength to strength, and which, even after a division of their ranks caused by the Church Union separation, has a communicant strength that exceeds the membership of 1875.

Those who regard the modern church as merely an occasional gathering for a Sunday service or a midweek prayer meeting are mistaken. A modern church is a large and many-sided enterprise and when the programme of a thousand or more congregations is regarded, then it becomes "big business." So the agenda of the General Assembly is an imposing document that will take a week of intensive work on the part of its 300 or 400 commissioners to deal with and dispose of. The personnel of the "House" will be half clerical and half laymen. They will meet in Stratford, Ont., during the first week in June, next in Knox Church, which has been newly decorated for the gathering.

PROGRAMME WIDE

The programme will, moreover, be not only Dominion-wide, but almost world-wide in its scope, for this historic old denomination believes in and supports a great missionary enterprise; home and foreign in the old terminology; national and overseas in more modern phrase. One report will claim that this church is carrying on a home mission work greater, relative to its strength, than ever before, including an interest in many of the diverse human elements in our varied population from coast to coast, both of English speech and of non-Anglo-Saxon stock. Ukrainians and Hungarians, Scandinavians and Persians, Chinese and Hindoos are among the different nationalities in which Presbyterians are vitally interested. Who shall say that this is not the best type of patriotism, that of helping to make a nation Christian?

Beyond the boundaries of our far-flung Dominion a world map of missions will indicate fields allocated to this church under an amicable division made by the Presbyterian and United Churches. The former thus had a missionary responsibility for three million of non-Christian population, in British Guina, among the native black population of that British possession; in North Formosa, containing the work inaugurated by George Leslie Mackay—the "Black-beared Barbarian," as this stalwart son of Zorra is known, and in two areas of Central India—the Bhil field, still superintended by Rev. James Buchanan, and the Gwalior field, a monument to the life work of another grand old man of missions, Rev. John Wilkie.

Rev. Jonathan Gosforth, another pioneer, represents his church in China and Manchuria, during these troubled days there, as one who knows well both country and people. If the missionary programme of the Women's Missionary Society, in Canada and in the above-mentioned fields is added, as it should be, with its large staff of trained workers, the total undertaking is an important and extensive one worthy of the church at its back and its long and honorable missionary history.

MODERATOR'S REPORT

The retiring Moderator, Rev. J. A. MacGillivray, D.D., will give an account of his moderatorial year and it will be an interesting and encouraging one, of thousands of miles of travel between oceans and of visits to hundreds of congregations and minority groups, making a remarkable record of service in this official capacity.

Then will follow the selection of his successor. Four nominations have thus far been made for this high office: Rev. R. W. Dickie, D.D., Montreal, Que.; Rev. S. Banks Nelson, D.D., Hamilton, Ont.; Rev. R. G. MacBeth, Vancouver, B.C.; and Rev. W. L. Clay, D.D., Victoria, B.C.

Prominent on the agenda will be the important decisions of the Federal Church Property Commission as recently made public. While its decisions are final and therefore irrevocable, yet the results will no doubt give rise to discussions and debates, with consideration of the adjustments necessitated thereby. Rarely has a General Assembly had to deal with a more momentous document, following the equally momentous division caused by the Church Union question.

It will be possible to set all the church machinery in motion now that the allocation of trust and other funds has been made. It will be full steam ahead.

Reports in all the various departments will be encouraging to a degree and will reveal a marked recovery since the decisive church union date of June 10, 1925, its membership, finances and congregational strength as a whole. The retiring moderator will probably claim an advance over the 1,200 congregations, preaching stations and mission fields of a year ago, as well as of a remarkable activity in church and manse building. More than 100 churches are being built, with many more planned or under way. Minority groups, dispossessed of their churches, are organizing and forming new alignments; new Sunday schools are being opened all across the country, as preliminary to future churches, while the Sunday school and Young People's Society, in reporting over 1,000 Sunday schools and over 100,000 teachers, officers and scholars, will indicate that youth has not deserted "the Church of the Burning Bush."

What the finance minister will report cannot be told in advance, but if the generous response of the Presbyterian people to the budget in the past has been continued, the determination of the all-lay board of administration, to keep the disbursements within the receipts, will be maintained.

The 153,000 members as on January 1, 1926, will show a substantial increase for that year, making the Presbyterian Church in Canada, already the third largest denomination in the Dominion (representing three-quarters of a million of its population) an important member of the world Pan-Presbyterian Alliance family of 30,000,000 or more. The "continuers" will be found to be continuing in spite of all setbacks and separations.

REV. DR. W. L. CLAY

One of the four nominees for the chair of Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is Rev. Dr. W. L. Clay, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of this city. The General Assembly will meet at Stratford on June 1.

First Aiders Put on Great Show in Chicago

AN audience of 7,000 people worked up to a high state of enthusiasm by five brass bands, choruses of rooters, and loud speakers announcing each problem as it occurred, witnessed the First Aid Contest for the Bauer & Black Challenge Cup at Chicago recently, at which the Canadian Pacific Railway entered the team from the Investigation Department of the company, the only Canadian team among the eleven to compete, and which ended in fourth place with 489 points out of a possible 500, only five points behind the winner.

The C.P.R. team showed great merit having regard to the fact that their training had been under the rules of the St. John Ambulance Association, while the contest was held under those of the American Red Cross, which are very different and for which the team had only a couple of months to prepare. Again, there was no privacy about the contest, all teams working against one another on the floor of the Armory and having their captains and spares varied for each of the five problems set them. All were agreed that the contest was conducted in a fair and impartial manner.

A dramatic moment occurred just before the contest opened. Inspector Wilfrid Mansell, instructor to the C.P.R. team, had died on the train going to Chicago. This was announced from the platform and the whole audience rose and stood at attention for a minute while a bugler sounded taps.

The illustration shows the C.P.R. team engaged in one of the most difficult of the tests, that of a man with a fractured knee cap. Left to right there are shown: Constable F. F. Pettit, Acting-Sergeant George Curtis (captain of the team), and Constable A. R. Hart. The patient is Constable Jesse Holmes. Other members of the team were Constables Thomas O'Neill and Enos Sharpe.

Earl Carroll Reported To Be Physical Wreck

GREENVILLE, S.C., May 6.—Earl Carroll, the New York theatrical producer, was said today by Dr. C. O. Bates, one of his attending physicians, to be a "nervous wreck." Carroll collapsed on a train on April 13, while en route to the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Dr. Bates said he would not be able to work for some time, after being taken to the prison and probably not before the expiration of his year and a day sentence for perjury in connection with his "bathtub" party.

ECONOMISTS HEAR PLEA FOR FARMER

World Conference Warned Agricultural Industry Must Get Its Just Due—Calamity Forecast Otherwise

AMERICAN THRUSTS AT RUBBER TRADE

GENEVA, May 6.—The problems of farmers received the attention of the International Economic Conference today, when President Demichelis, of the International Institute of Agriculture, declared that in all countries farmers were receiving less for their products than before the war.

M. Demichelis warned the conference that if the farmers ultimately learn the trick of producing as little as possible at the highest price, it would cause a calamity compared with which the present situation is an El Dorado. The speaker made an appeal for justice to farmers.

In the course of a reference to the question of inter-Allied debts, W. T. Layton, English economist, urged the American delegation at the conference to make clear the role that the United States probably would play in world commerce during the next decade.

Henry M. Robinson, head of the American delegation, after delivering an address in which he outlined economic conditions in the United States, departed from his text to refer to the question of rubber. He took up a statement by Sir Max Muspratt, British delegate, that the British restrictions on the output of rubber did not constitute discrimination in favor of Great Britain.

Mr. Robinson said he wondered whether the fact that more than seventy-five per cent of the rubber output was consumed in a non-producing country (the United States), while the country controlling the restrictions consumed only seven per cent of the total supply, "might not be looked upon as discrimination."

Sir Max had stated that the rubber restrictions were merely introduced to assure the supply of raw material essential to modern industry.

Mr. Robinson had no intention, he said, of discussing the difficulties involved in restrictions on production under government supervision but he wanted to say that this British comment puzzled him. "I cannot see clearly," he said, "how restrictions on output could assure supply at a high level and prove of ultimate benefit to the world."

MR. J. H. BEATTY IS VISITING HOOD RIVER

Rotary Governor Stresses Importance of International Relations for Local Citizens

Mr. J. H. Beatty, International Governor of District Number One of the Rotary Club, left yesterday for Hood River, Ore., where he will be present at the creation of a new Rotary Club which has been formed there, and which bears the number 2541, which shows the extent to which this organization has grown. The ceremonies connected with this club will take place tonight when there is expected to be present visiting Rotarians from Portland and various other nearby points.

Mr. Beatty, speaking of the work he has in mind as governor of the district, says that he will be absent on visits to the various clubs connected with the district about a quarter of the time this year.

In this connection he says that mixing with the different clubs on the other side of the line has taught him that too much stress cannot be laid upon the international relations between the different countries. This is very evident in the United States, where the mental attitude of the members is decidedly directed towards the international relations.

With this in view Mr. Beatty thinks that there is much to be achieved not only among those who are members of the Rotary movement but by all classes of citizens in the way of getting away from what may be described as an insular view in matters. He believes that there should be inculcated a need of viewing things from the broad international aspect rather than in the narrow local viewpoint.

Water-power is the source of over ninety-eight per cent of the total output of central electric stations in Canada.

Military Authorities To Try Mme. Borodin

PEKING, May 6.—Charles Fox, U.S. lawyer and publisher of Tientsin, retained by the Russian Embassy to defend Madam Borodin and the others awaiting trial by the Northern Chinese authorities, declared today that he believed a military trial was certain, thereby frustrating his participation.

Madam Borodin, who is charged with plotting against the Northern Government, was described by Mr. Fox as "defiant." He believed that the trial would result in the deportation of all the prisoners. Madam Borodin is the wife of Michael Borodin, adviser to the Cantonese Government at Hankow.

LIQUOR COMMISSIONS

The inquiries into the Carlow and Gauthier charges are at an end and the judgments of the Commissioner are being awaited with a good deal of public interest. What will be the tenor of those judgments it is no business of any newspaper to anticipate but there are certain facts emerging from the evidence, and from the comment of the Commissioner himself, which afford justifiable themes for discussion at this time. In the first place what has been educed fully warrants these charges having been brought up in the Legislature by Mr. H. Despard Twigg. Similarly we might say that they were of a nature that warranted the Government appointing the commissions of investigation. There are suspicions which have been engendered in the public mind that have been confirmed by the utterance of the Commissioner himself to the following effect—"The gravamen of these charges is not personal dishonesty but that through the Government's dealings in liquor there has been created a multiplicity of agents, and a system by which these agents had contributed to campaign funds from their commissions."

The Government would seem to have anticipated that these facts would come to light in the course of the inquiries and hence the legislation of the past session which endeavored to remove the control of the liquor traffic from the Attorney-General's Department to Commissioner Davidson of the Liquor Board. This legislation now interprets itself in the guise of a deathbed repentance for sins of omission and commission. It appears in the form of a salve to the public conscience and an act whereby the Government sought to place itself in the position of anticipating the nature of the evidence about to come to light. The trouble is that the repentance does not mean restitution. Liquor commissions have been used for party purposes and the Liberal Party stands convicted, in the words of a Commissioner of its own appointing, of providing itself with campaign funds through the agency of that liquor control which the people have approved and which the Government exercises.

For having been the medium of bringing the facts to light Mr. Twigg deserves the whole-hearted thanks of the people of British Columbia. The Ministers of the Oliver Government cannot plead ignorance of the reprehensible method that has been employed in the raising of campaign funds. Those funds could not have been raised in that fashion without ministerial sanction and co-operation, or indeed, if they could, then the Government control over liquor administration has been only a delusion and a snare. It is a natural inference, from that portion of the evidence in which Mr. Justice Morrison has acquiesced, that those who are friends of the party and who are willing to assist in the raising of campaign funds for the political followers of the Government, and for the electioneering purposes of that Government itself, can hope to act as agents for those firms from whom the Liquor Control Board is willing to make purchases to be retailed through the Government's vending establishments.

What has been uncovered is a definite and sustained system of graft. It can be described by no other word. To emphasize this it is only necessary to repeat the words of the Commissioner—"Through the Government's dealings in liquor there has been created a multiplicity of agents and a system by which these agents had contributed to campaign funds from their commissions." The question now is, how long is this graft to continue to buttress up the fortunes of the Liberal Party in British Columbia? We have the evidence in the late inquiry, and the admission of that evidence, that one of the chief workers of the Liberal Party paid Gauthier a substantial sum of money in the hope of staving off exposures. That is a palpable admission on the part of the Liberal Party that it had been engaged in a traffic, and was responsible for acts, which it did not wish to come within public knowledge. Thanks to the energies of Mr. Twigg, one of the Victoria members, the facts are now known. They are facts that stand out in connection with the Carlow and Gauthier inquiries and they cannot be burked. They point the moral and "adorn" a tale of depravity which it is the duty of the people of British Columbia to make sure can never be repeated in their future political history.

PROTECTING FREEDOM

The Trade Union Bill which has just passed its second reading in the British House of Commons has become involved, as it were, in a cloud of controversy. Probably the Laborites are fully justified in using it as a political weapon, and in doing so they have been successful in a measure in beclouding the real points at issue. What they are not justified in doing is in indulging in misstatements and in endeavoring to pose before Labor in other countries as being placed in the role of martyrs. It is being described as class legislation. The Budget is the same inasmuch as it has levied new taxes on the rich. Most legislation, in some form or other, is of the class variety but the Trade Union Bill is of a character designed to afford a nation protection against the dislocation of its economic life and the consequent infliction of all round suffering. In this particular it is national legislation. It clearly enacts, and perhaps in a way re-enacts, that certain principles with which the vast majority of people are in agreement shall be established, namely:

(1) That a general strike or lockout shall be illegal.

(2) That a man or woman shall not be intimidated so far as the law can protect them.

(3) That no trade unionist, again so far as the law can operate, shall be compelled to subscribe to the funds of a political party with which he is not in agreement.

Before the Bill becomes law its provisions will be made to apply to owners' organizations as well as to trade unions, and that is as it should be. A national lockout would be as dangerous for the nation as a national strike. So far as the prevention of intimidation is concerned it is merely a reaffirmation of the liberty of the subject, a liberty which Labor, as well as all other classes of a community, should honor and protect. The protection afforded under the new legislation against the forcible imposition of a levy for political purposes is a matter where the freedom of the individual is concerned. No man or woman should be forced by any political party to contribute to its funds. That should be an axiom of democracy. Trade unionists, as well as all others, should be protected from the tyranny of their own executives and the good sense of the British people will approve this. The measure, in reality, is one to save both the nation and the individual from coercion and as such must appeal to any liberty-loving people.

RHEIMS CATHEDRAL

The Cathedral at Rheims, so badly damaged during the war, has been largely renovated and is to be opened again this month. The building since 496, when Clovis was baptised there, has held the place of honor among the ecclesiastical structures of France and has been the scene of many coronations. It is a place redolent of history, associated with Joan of Arc because it was there that she witnessed the coronation of Charles the Victorious, her rightful king. The Great War and German bombardments did not constitute the first sacrilege of this cathedral because it was despoiled during the French Revolution when its treasures were carried away and its iron work torn off for the making of muskets. It is known as the "perfect cathedral" and the process of rebuilding has been largely aided by the generous gift of 5,000,000 francs from Mr. J. D. Rockfeller. It is through his munificence that the reopening ceremony will be possible this month.

Film legislation in Britain, the outstanding feature of which is the application of the quota system, has already been the means of promoting great activity in the British film trade. The Gaumont-British Picture Corporation has been formed to operate the Gaumont Company, the Ideal Film Company, the W. and F. Film Service and twenty-one London and provincial picture theatres. It has in view a plan for making the Palace of Engineering at Wembley a great picture studio. Other evidences of new enterprise in the industry are ambitious programmes of new films being arranged by Gainsborough Pictures, the Stoll Film Company, British International Pictures, Welsh-Pearson and several other companies.

Miss McPhail may find a ray of light in the dark storm of criticism with which she has been enveloped since her letter on the Cadet movement by the fact that her cause is championed by the Hearst press. Whatever satisfaction she derives in this particular, will, however, give joy to the opponents of her views, for the Hearst press is notoriously unfriendly to the British Empire.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

He rolled into the office, took a nautical double hitch in his trousers, wiped his bread brow with an immense handkerchief, and sank into the only extra chair in the place. He was broad of beam, and the frail chair groaned under his weight as he settled down upon it. He was palpably a sea-faring man of the old and obsolete school. He wanted to know if we had read the only news item of interest in The Morning Colonist. We asked him for more specific information, and he pointed to an article amongst the shipping news stating that Captain Beadnell of the White Star Line steamer Adriatic, and originally of the clipper ship Titania, was retiring from the sea.

He pulled his glasses from his pocket, adjusted them on his capacious nose beneath his broad brow, spread out the paper, and slowly and methodically read for our benefit the most interesting item in The Morning Colonist. He said he knew the old clipper ship Titania well, that she was indeed a most beautiful though not a specially stately craft, being of small dimensions compared with the Cutty Sark or the Thermopylae, both fast and celebrated ships. He explained that Cutty Sark rendered into English meant short or cut-away shirt or shift. It was an agile and shapely nymph attired in nothing but a cutty sark who danced so divinely that she drew an exclamation of admiration from Tam O'Shanter that nearly proved disastrous to the body, and possibly to the soul too, of that jolly toper.

Then he proceeded to tell us why he was particularly interested in the retirement of the man who once had commanded the Titania, probably the smallest full-rigged ship that ever had sailed the Seven Seas. The item he had read stated that the Titania was the first ship that entered the harbor of Port Moody on Burrard Inlet. The Titania was entitled to credit for a more wonderful performance than that. The little ship when in the service of the Hudson's Bay Company had sailed into the Inner Harbor of Victoria, without the assistance of a tug or a pilot, and cast her lines ashore at the old Hudson's Bay Company's wharf. That was a feat of seamanship which bore testimony to the qualities and the capacities of the captains of the old school. We had heard a story about some ship sailing without mechanical or local human assistance into the Inner Harbor of Victoria, but never before had we heard the marvellous feat attributed to the Titania and her commander.

But the old sea-dog proceeded to fortify his yarn by asking us if we remembered the days when there were always two or three ships tied up at the old docks on Wharf Street, whether we ever had fraternized, as he had, with the skippers of those ships, and enjoyed their boundless hospitality. The old chap was disappointed when told that fortune never had been so kind to us as it had been to him, rose from the chair, took another double hitch in his capacious trousers, lifted his right foot very high as if the floor were a deck rising upon an on-coming wave, and rolled down the stairs.

According to other old-timers, all the business of British Columbia once was concentrated upon Wharf Street, Victoria. But, as our old friend Mike would say, them was the days of the old sailing ships and the times when there were practically no railways. The application of steam to both water and land transportation has revolutionized trade and changed the old order of business. The great steel vessels of the C.P.R., the Blue Funnel and other lines, plying upon regular round-the-world schedules, have supplanted the beautiful and romantic sailing ships. The gallant old captains who once spoke scornfully of steam-driven ships as pots and kettles are either dead or retired from the sea. Most of them have done what Captain Beadnell says he is going to do. They are living within sight of the sea that once was their home and watching the steamers go by. They will watch for a long time before they see a sailing ship go by—and once upon a time that was a common thing for anyone to see who lived within sight of the sea. To watch a full-rigged ship sail close to shore and majestically change lacks was a wonderful sight to see, a sight, once seen, that never will be forgotten.

Doubtless the sturdy old tar who came into the office to tell us about the famous Titania and the wonderful seamanship of her captain had seen the steam railway supplant the stage coach as well as the steam ship supplant the sailing ship. As no order is permanent, the reminiscent old fellow may live long enough to see the steam railway and the steam ship attacked and cast into the scrap heap by other methods of land and water transportation. The motor car is moving swiftly over the face of the earth and demanding recognition and the plane is flying even more swiftly through the air and insisting that it is entitled to consideration as a practical method of transportation. The business man of Victoria today can complete a trip to London in a couple of weeks, whereas the Victoria business man of the days of the old Titania required several months to accomplish such a journey. The Victoria business man of the future may be taking unto himself wings some fine morning and descending from the air in London in the evening of the second day. A few years from now the Empress of Canada may be regarded as an interesting specimen of obsolete marine architecture.

Favorite Hymns and Their Writers

By REV. ARTHUR WALLACE

"SWEET THE MOMENTS, RICH IN BLESSING"

The author of this beautiful hymn, especially appropriate for Good Friday services, was Rev. James Oswald Allen. He was born at Gayle, Yorkshire, and begun to study for the ministry of the Anglican Church, but after one year at Cambridge University, he left and became an itinerant preacher. As is well known, a good deal of religious controversy followed the great evangelical revival under Wesley and Whitefield, and Allen, while a man of culture and unmistakable piety, seems to have been a man of shifting opinions. He served for some time as a preacher of a sect known as the "Inghamites," and for them he wrote more than sixty hymns, which he published, together with some by his colleagues, in 1757. He called his book "A Collection of Hymns for the Use of Those That Seek, and Those That Have, Redemption in the Blood of Christ." Some time later he changed his views—for the third or fourth time—and built a church, where he ministered to a congregation until his death in 1804.

About this time a clergyman of the Anglican Church, Rev. Walter Shirley, who was a relative of that very devout, if somewhat erratic lady, the Countess of Huntingdon, was assisting in every way he could the evangelical movement. Shirley was greatly interested in building up a hymnology which he considered expresed the views, as well as the religious emotions, of earnest Christians. With this end in view he carefully searched every posible source for a hymnal, which the Countess of Huntingdon published in 1770. These hymns appeared with the caption "The Collection of Hymns Sung in the Countess of Huntingdon's Chapel." In this collection appeared James Allen's hymn, "Sweet the Moments, Rich in Blessing."

There can be no doubt that Shirley greatly improved the hymn, so much so that it is safe to say that he is almost as much its author as Allen himself. There was no thought whatever of plagiarism in Shirley's mind, for he never laid claim to having written the hymn, or indeed to have played any part in its composition, yet a comdisgrace drove Shirley broken-hearted which it appears reveals how much its universal popularity is due to Shirley's hand.

Rev. Mr. Shirley revised this hymn under circumstances which made him feel that every line expressed his own sentiments. His brother, the Earl of Forrars, in a fit of rage had murdered an old servant. For this crime he was executed at Tyburn, and the family disgrace drove Shirley broken-hearted to his little parish in Ireland. All his deep humiliation seemed to find expresion in the lines of this confesional hymn, and throughout life it remained his favorite. He died in 1786, and he continued to preach almost until his last hour. The tune everywhere asociated with the hymn is "Sicily" from an old Latin hymn tune, "O Sanctissian."

Million to Be Saved By Refinancing Scheme

OTTAWA, May 6.—Canada will, it is officially stated, effect an annual saving of approximately $1,000,000 in interest charges by a proposed plan of refinancing in regard to Dominion loans maturing this year. Three financial obligations are to be dealt with during the next seven months. The largest of these maturities is a portion of the 1917 Victory Loan, 5 1-2 per cent tax free, totalling $63,437,250, expiring on December 1. This loan, it is stated, will be redeemed by the flotation of a new loan at a reduced rate of interest.

"VANCOUVER'S ISLE"

(Dedicated to the British Columbia Historical Association in commemoration of Captain George Vancouver's Great Adventure, his entry into the Straits of Juan de Fuca and subsequent landing at Port Discovery, May 2, 1792.)

"Vancouver's Isle!" A goodly land,
Our heritage: and hallowed o'er
The memory of those valiant men
Who braved the deep in days of yore.
The world well lost to them, who dared
New worlds to conquer, and set forth
From leafy lanes in England: lo!
A gallant band, they beard the North!

From Plymouth, Portsmouth, Dover, these
Courageously had sallied oft;
But none ere now to Western wilds
Had tacked, or reefed a sail aloft.
Howbeit, loved ones left behind,
Home, rural hedges, song-birds, all:
To far-flung reaches, headlands fair,
To fertile vale and waterfall!

How brightly gleam the waters where
They scan those proud Olympics! Grand
Beyond description are the sights
That meet the eye on every hand:
The wild fowl in amazement wheel
Affrighted—lo! the natives too
Askance, inclined to draw aloof
Ere trinkets, beads and baubles woo.

The balmy winds scarce bear their ship
Upon her quest; the towering trees
Their fragrance waft along the shore:
Ah! this were England Overseas!
Nor would we boast; but racial pride
Must needs full tribute bring to bear
Upon the deeds of men who oft
Conquered with courage, grim despair.

All honor then to these who first
Bore down upon this Western main—
The gallant captain and his crew,
Whose country's glory was their gain.
Triumphantly they held their course—
These, heroes all—whose names be blest
In that they first unveiled for us
This star of Empire in the West!

THE AUGUST DAYS

(After seeing the film "Mons, 1914.")

Those August days; how they come back once more!
When the whole world in dumb suspense was stilled,
Waiting they knew not what; 'til the word "War!"
Burst on the nations' ears; and when there thrilled
The call to arms through England's mighty heart,
And woke within her breast the undying fires;
When she her sons bade forth to play their part
And prove themselves as worthy of their sires!

Aye, and right worthily did they uphold
Old England's honor! For there still in farms
And homesteads of a foreign land is told
The deathless tale of Mons; how British arms
And British lads, outgunned, outnumbered, stood
Four-square against the world, stemming the flood,
To die at last as all such heroes should,
Leaving a name writ deep in fire and blood!

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

What is the worth of a dream, you ask, through the hours of the long, bright day, with the mind and hands at their chosen task while the moments slip away? Why, but lightly, indeed, do men hold a dream as their labor-filled hours flit by, for their thoughts are all of a trade or scheme and of markets now low, now high. But what is the worth of a dream, you ask, at the end of the bright day's reign, when the soul is stripped of its worldly mask and comes into its own again? Ah, the dream that comes with the sunset's gold at the close of the long day's strife, is as sweet as the petals the moonflowers unfold and is dearer, sometimes, than life!

SPORT; AND SPORT

True sportsmen met and took an equal stand
Where one must fall. Each had a sporting chance
To live by lightning eye or twist of hand.
And gallant horsemanship, with sword or lance.
Long dead those knights who rode throughout the land,
And staked their life as common circumstance.
To measure strength, full worthy foes they sought,
With equal chance to die, and named it sport.

But sport has changed, those knightly days are o'er.
Man strikes his fleeing quarry from afar
And rules supreme. Unto himself a law
Throught his vain span till on the quickening bar
Where all are equal in an equal war,
And vainly searching for a friendly star;
Like hunted stag braced for his dying stand,
He droops the same, and sinks into the sand.

He calls it sport to take a gentle hart,
Whose home is in a lovely country park.
Torn from his stricken doe, thrust in a cart;
In darkness jolted, listens to the bark
Of honest dogs, spurred on to tear apart
His comely limbs, and leave an ugly mark
On future pages for the children dear,
To read of this dark age, with awe and fear.

Importance of Aerial Service for Carriage of Gold Emphasized By Finance Minister

CAPETOWN, May 6.—In a statement on the Government's decision to build an airship mooring mast, Hon. N. C. Havenga, Minister of Finance, in the Legislative Assembly today emphasized the importance to the Union of rapid transport between South Africa and the rest of the world, particularly in regard to the carriage of gold.

He concluded by stressing the great strides being made in commercial flying, and declared South Africa in her own interest must make ready to take the fullest advantage of new developments.

Dominion Lifts Ban On Scottish Cattle

OTTAWA, May 6.—The situation in regard to foot and mouth disease in England has so greatly improved that the British Ministry has found it possible to remove their restrictions on the movement of cattle in that country. In view of this, and as Scotland has been absolutely free from the disease for six months, the Department of Agriculture here now considers that it will be justified in permitting the importation of cattle, sheep and swine from Scotland under certain conditions.

An order has therefore today been signed, says a statement issued by the department, permitting such importations from Scotland provided that such animals are embarked from a Scottish port.

SPRING FLOWER SHOW AFFAIRS WOUND UP; DECIDED SUCCESS

The finial accounts of the Spring Flower Show, recently held at the Willows under the management of Mr. P. R. Leighton, showed that a cash balance of $22.06 remained, the difference between an income of $845.22 and expenditures amounting to $823.16. Receipts were: donations, $431.50; entry fees, $33.60; season tickets, $44; auction proceeds, $33.40; admission at door, $232.85; flower jars, $69.87.

Hearty thanks were extended by the show committee to those who rendered financial aid, to the donors of cups, trophies and cash prizes, and to the British Columbia Agricultural Association for the use of the building at the Willows, and to those who offered their services as judges.

The idea of the flower show sprang from a suggestion made by Professor E. M. Straight, who was thanked for his aid and for the Dominion Government exhibit. Messrs. C. E. Whitney Griffiths and P. R. Leighton occupied the chair during the meeting

The matter of electing a delegate to attend the forthcoming B.E.S.L. provincial convention in Vancouver during the coming month also will be discussed.

BRITANNIA POST

Britannia Post of the Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L. has received a letter from Lord Willingdon, through Government House, making mention of the good work carried out by this branch.

Among recent pension cases brought to the attention of Britannia Post are some in which members of the C.E.F. on discharge commuted their pensions, and now, due to increasing age the disability is increasing. These men are anxious to get a new board and new consideration from the Pensions Act.

Fire Marshals Speak At Ottawa Conference

OTTAWA, May 6.—The fire marshals of six provinces addressed the annual meeting of the Dominion Fire Preventive Association at the closing session here today, to impress the lesson of experience that reduction in fire loss invariably has followed on organized work of inspection and education. In most cases it was stated that preventive work along modern lines had been carried out for only a few years and it was given much credit for the reduction in the national fire loss of thirty per cent since 1922.

The speakers from the provinces included Mr. J. A. Thomas, of British Columbia.

Officers were all re-elected as follows: Honorary president, Hon. J. A. Robb; president, Sir George Foster; honorary vice-president and chairman of executive, Mr. W. H. Shapley; representing the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, vice-president, Mr. J. N. Mackendricks; honorary secretary, Mr. G. D. Finlayson, superintendent of insurance; executive officer, Mr. J. Grove Smith, Dominion fire commissioner.

TWO MEMBERS ARE EXONERATED

INTERIM REPORT PRESENTED BY MR. JUSTICE MORRISON ON GAUTHIER CASE

Minister of Public Works and Speaker Absolved of Blame From Charges

Mr. Justice Morrison, who has been conducting an official inquiry into the charges contained in the affidavit of Mr. J. A. Gauthier, has handed down an interim report on the subject. In this document he declares that any imputations that might have been cast upon Hon. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, of improper conduct, are in his opinion untrue. He also alludes to the fact that Mr. H. D. Twigg, who moved in the matter in the Legislature, had unreservedly dissociated himself from any personal charges against either Hon. Dr. Sutherland or Hon. J. A. Buckham, the Speaker. His Lordship sets out that he deems it wise to relieve these public men from any imputations.

Later it is promised that the whole matter of the inquiry will be dealt with by the Commissioner.

The interim report is as follows:

"I beg to submit this, an interim report based upon the evidence adduced at the sittings of the Royal Commission issued to me on April 14, 1927, pursuant to the Public Inquiries Act, and which commission empowered me to inquire into the truth of certain allegations contained in a declaration made by one John A. Gauthier, sworn in Seattle, Washington, U.S.A., on February 11, imputing improper conduct to the Honorable Mr. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works. I find these allegations to be untrue. Mr. Twigg, who moved the resolution in the Legislature, incorporating these allegations, unreservedly dissociated himself from any personal charges against either the Honorable Mr. Sutherland or the Honorable Mr. Buckham. On that phase of the inquiry I deemed it proper, in order that these gentlemen may not further lie under such imputations, to hand down this interim report, leaving a more full and detailed treatment of the matter to be dealt with in my final report.

"All of which is respectfully submitted.

"AULAY MORRISON,
"The Commissioner."

CITY'S RECEIPTS AGAIN INCREASED

MAYOR RECOMMENDS APPROXIMATELY $30,000 INCREASE IN ESTIMATED REVENUE

City Comptroller's Report Shows Increased Collection in Tax Arrears This Year

Estimated collection of tax arrears was raised by $32,500 at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the City Council so as to meet the thirty-eight mill rate decided upon. This was done so that no further reduction would be necessary in the estimates.

City Comptroller D. A. Macdonald submitted a report which showed the increase already made this year in these collections. The Mayor, in recommending the increase in estimated revenue stated:

"With reference to the decision of the City Council to fix the mill rate for 1927 at thirty-eight mills I feel confident that in the aggregate we can safely increase our estimated revenues by approximately $30,000, and in order to make the necessary adjustment in the figures as prepared, I would suggest that our estimated collection of arrears be set at $161,750 instead of $134,250.

"With reference to the statement which is submitted by the city comptroller regarding collections of arrears, it will be noted that the collections under all heads up to April 30 amount to $50,034 as against $48,975 for the same period in 1926. A very marked improvement will be noted for the month of April."

APRIL SHOWING GOOD

Mr. Macdonald gave a statistical report showing the collections during the months of March and April of last year as compared with the same months this year. The increase is $2,059 for the month of April alone.

Alderman Marchant again deplored the reduction in the public works estimates, pointing out that essential work would be curtailed if another $10,000 was not voted to that department.

Mayor Pendray, however, pointed out that $44,000 in supplementary estimates was spent last year on paving work.

The Council eventually came to a compromise and decided to increase the estimated receipts by $5,000. This brings the total of estimated collections up to $167,750 instead of $161,750 as suggested by the Mayor. City Comptroller Macdonald pointed out that there was one item that he had overlooked in the city's estimated receipts was $2,100 from the racetrack concession so that part of the $5,000 for public works will be covered by this revenue.

Many Eastern Tourists Expected This Season

Requests for Victoria and Island descriptive literature are being received in increasing numbers from Eastern Canada residents, and also from railway offices from Winnipeg to Montreal. The Publicity Bureau gave as a reason the large number of Eastern provinces residents who visited the coast last year.

The Bureau stated yesterday that the Advertisers' Club, of New York City, would visit Victoria on July 15 during the course of their coast-to-coast tour. The advertising men have asked for photographs and motion picture films of Vancouver Island scenery.

The Cameron Lake Chalet, situated on the shores of picturesque Cameron Lake and managed by Mrs. A. M. Monks, recently opened for the season. Fishing is said to be good in the vicinity at present, and all preparations have been completed for the tourist traffic.

Name Grouping

The Canadian National Telegraphs announce an amendment to the international regulations which permits of grouping of the complete name of a street in the address or in the text of a cable message. Formerly it was obligatory to count "Belgrave Square," for example, as two words. Under the amended regulations, it may be written "Belgravesquare" and counted as one word. Similarly, "Rue de la Paix, Maria Theresia Strasse, Calle de Caspe," may now be written "Ruedelapaix, Mariatheresiastrasse, Calledecaspe" and counted as three words.

FIRE THREATENS OFFICERS' MESS AT WORK POINT

Soldiers and Firemen Smother Blaze After Three Hours of Hard Fighting

Fire which broke out in the officers' quarters of Work Point Barracks at about 3:20 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, threatened to destroy the entire quarters of the families in residence and the officers' mess until firemen and soldiers subdued the flames after three hours of fighting under intense heat.

The first smoke, belching from upper windows of the building which is situated almost at the extreme end of Work Point, called out a firefighting squad consisting of garrison troops. These men, armed with two hose lines, endeavored to stem the tide of flames with the water jets, but the fire was well started and necessitated the summoning of the municipal firefighting force.

From the Esquimalt Municipal Hall, the first fire-engine to arrive on the scene added its hose to the defence line thrown out against the flames. Meanwhile two alarms had sounded at city headquarters, and the order was given for the Victoria West engine to attend the fire.

Deputy Fire Chief Munroe sped to Work Point and took charge of the fight.

INTENSE HEAT

The roof of the building, under which the fire had its foundation, was of fireproof material and through this the flames did not eat. But work was the more difficult for the men engaged since the lack of outlet sent the flames whirling downwards and made the heat terrific.

Victoria firemen, led by the deputy chief, trained hose lines on the heart of the fire and cut a way through on one side to better attack the main blaze and keep it from spreading.

Great volumes of smoke poured from the windows of the structure and choked those within as they labored.

By 5 o'clock the Victoria apparatus had done all it could to smother the outbreak and left the last details to the Esquimalt men and garrison troops to attend to.

WATER DAMAGES

There was small damage to the building by fire, for the efforts of the men prevented its spread, but the great quantity of water which was poured in upon the flames flooded a great part of the middle portion of the building, above the officers' mess room, and apartments adjoining. It was impossible to estimate the damage today, said Chief of Police Acreman of Esquimalt, who is also fire marshal in the municipality.

During February, of this year, and after much negotiation, and many tests, the large building at Work Point Barracks, and which houses the resident officers and their families, was completely reroofed with

Canadian Johns-Manville Asbestos Roofing

On Saturday, April 30, fire broke out in the attic of the officers' mess, which forms part of the reroofed building. For three hours firemen fought the flames amidst terrific heat. Any roofing that permitted the fire to break through the roof meant total destruction of the entire building and its valuable contents.

What this remarkable Asbestos Roofing has done for the officers at Work Point Barracks, and how it withstood the terrific fire test is best evidenced by the feelings of the various officers stationed there.

AN EXPERIENCE OF THIS KIND PROVES BEYOND ANY QUESTION OF A DOUBT THAT—

No Roofing Equals Asbestos

This same roofing can be had at a cost that lies within the reach of anyone's purse. It can be used on the new home, or for re-roofing the old. The SPECIAL JOHNS-MANVILLE METHOD OF RE-ROOFING eliminates the necessity of tearing off the old shingles. The colors are Green, Red, and Slate, and are permanent, and hence keeps its appearance, and saves costly painting.

People who pay the few more dollars that an asbestos roof cost over the ordinary kind, do so because they look upon the additional money spent as an investment to rid themselves of future roof expense.

Gentlemen:

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to pay, what I consider just tribute to the exceptional fire-resisting qualities of the Canadian Johns-Manville Flexstone Asbestos Roofing which was used on the Officers' Quarters at Work Point Barracks, and in which the fire occurred last Saturday afternoon.

For about two hours the blaze raged in the attic of the Officers' Mess portion of the building and the fact that the fire was confined to that part only was undoubtedly largely due to the above roofing which had recently been put on.

The heat in the attic was considerable and most of the wooden framework was either burnt away or badly charred. Nevertheless the fire did not break through the roof at any point and, except for those shingles which were torn off, no damage whatever was done to the Asbestos roofing.

There is no doubt that this roofing kept the fire loss down to a great extent.

Yours very truly,
J. ACREMAN,
Fire Marshal

PLAYERS OF U.B.C GIVE ANNUAL PLAY

Romantic Young Lady Is Vehicle of Student Thespians at Royal Victoria Theatre

A capacity audience welcomed the Players' Club of the University of British Columbia, at the Royal Victoria Theatre last evening on the occasion of the twelfth annual Spring performance. Although "The Romantic Young Lady," a comedy in three acts from the Spanish of G. Martinez Sierra, is not the best vehicle which could have been chosen, the young actors assumed their respective roles with much credit, and in certain instances even succeeded in creating characters rather finer than the author's intention seemed to be.

The title of "The Romantic Young Lady" is a literal definition of the heroine of the story, "Rosaria," who has conceived life in terms of her favorite novelist, Luis Felipe de Cordoba, author of extravagantly sentimental books.

Rosaria's type is, fortunately rare, and Miss Dorothy Pound, who played the part, merits much praise for presenting it in so attractive a form. The blend of a nature which at one and the same time yearns for independence, while retaining all the old-fashioned capacity for resentment to unintended affronteries, was cleverly presented by this young member of the University Players. The mankind of her world is represented at first in her three brothers, quite definitely drawn types played by W. N. Buckingham, Everard Nash and David Brock. Also, in this part of the play, the audience is introduced to Dona Barbarita, an elderly Spanish lady, played with cumulative effect by Alice White, who simulated with consistent cleverness the carriage and gestures of a very old but high-spirited woman. Her lines, however, lost much of their force at times by being difficult to hear.

Luis Felipe de Cordoba, the hero of the play, and appearing as "The Apparition," was a romantic figure played by T. C. Gibbs with convincing extravagance of manner. Playing opposite Dorothy Pound throughout the major part of the three acts, their best scenes together were at the end of Act 1, just after their unusual form of introduction in a dark room in the middle of a thunderstorm, when de Cordoba comes bounding into the apartment in pursuit of his hat, which has been blown over the balcony by the gale; and in the author's office in Act II. Mr. Gibbs' final lines in the play suffered by being indistinctly spoken.

Two of the most interesting and well-sustained roles were Maria Pepa and Irene, the former a privileged, loyal and romantic, although superficially cynical maid who has been in the Dona Barbarita's family her whole life; the latter de Cordoba's refreshingly practical secretary. Madge Rankin made of the latter part a memorable creation, and Honor Kidd was no less outstanding in hers. Both spoke with fine distinctness and a concentration of intention which made their technique in matter of gesture and intonation perfectly spontaneous and natural. Milla Alihan in the part of "Amalia," the siren of the second act, was extremely effective. The small roles of "Don Juan," and "Gillermo" were convincing.

The play, given under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, benefits the Kiwanis boys' work fund.

JEWS, CATHOLICS AND PROTESTANTS WILL CO-OPERATE

NEW YORK, May 6.—A voluntary fact-finding and opinion-making body of Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews, believed the first of its kind in history, and designed to promote better understanding between the three faiths, has been organized into a permanent commission.

Isaac Landman, editor of The American Hebrew, declares in the current issue of the magazine, that the commission is to be free of private religious views, politics and the consideration of problems touching on international relations. Such a commission, the magazine points out, would preclude illwill and hatred against the faiths engendered from misunderstanding.

Nine members of the three religions are to function as the permanent commission. They are Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; Martin Conboy, Knight Commander of St. Gregory the Great; Victor J. Dowling, presiding justice of the appelate division of the Supreme Court of New York; the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, president of the Rainbow Division Veterans' Association; Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, former president of Brown University; Irving Lehman, judge of the Court of Appeals of New York State; Henry Morgenthau, former American Ambassador to Turkey; Roscoe Pound, dean of Harvard Law School, and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of Free Synagogue of New York.

MR. BOGGS IS NEW PRESIDENT

SUCCEEDS JUDGE HOWAY AS HEAD OF B.C. HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

Visit to Leechtown Planned—Obelisk to Governor Douglas May Be Raised

At the meeting of the British Columbia Historical Association last evening the selection was made of a permanent head to the organization, following the resignation some time ago of Judge Howay from the presidency, owing to a disagreement over the question of the date for celebrating the birthday of the Province of British Columbia. Mr. Beaumont Boggs was unanimously elected to the position of permanent president. Since the resignation of Judge Howay, Mr. Boggs has been acting as president.

At the meeting last evening Mr. Justice Martin, referring to the recent visit of the Association to San Juan, said that he felt that the society was not placed in a proper position by having to refer to Mr. Boggs as acting president. He hoped that Mr. Boggs would recede from the position he had taken before refusing to accept the office, and would allow his name to go into nomination.

Mr. Boggs said that he would leave the matter in the hands of the organization, and he was immediately elected.

Mr. V. L. Denton was elected to the position of first vice-president consequent upon this change, and Rev. J. C. Goodfellow was appointed second vice-president.

Mr. John Hosie tendered his resignation as honorary secretary. This was done in view of the fact that his time was fully taken up without this added office. The matter was referred to the executive with the hope that Mr. Hosie would reconsider his decision.

Mr. Hosie reported that since the return from the San Juan trip Mrs. Cree had found a ground plan drawing of the grounds of the British Camp there. This would be reproduced and would be incorporated in the report of the society.

It was announced that there would be a trip made by the society to Leechtown on Saturday, May 21. The visit to this historical placer camp would be by the C.N.R. gas car leaving the city at nine o'clock in the morning. Only a few of the timbers of the gold commissioner's house was now left, it was reported. There were two apple trees, however, in front of it planted in 1865 by the daughter of the Governor of that time.

In reply to a communication with respect to the raising of the Douglas monument and if possible of changing its position in Parliament Square, it was reported that the Government had stated that it had the matter under consideration.

Mr. C. C. Pemberton reported upon the matter of a number of historic sites and the present standing of the the various items. This was referred to the executive committee.

A poem by Mrs. Rathom was read on the subject of Captain Vancouver. It will be incorporated in the annual report of the society.

PATIENCE OF JOB SHOWN BY BRITAIN

Moderate Attitude Toward Chinese Is Stressed by Sir George Foster

MONTREAL, May 5.—Sir George Foster, veteran Canadian statesman and chairman of the Dominion's delegation to the League of Nations last year, thinks Britain's Chinese policy is characterized by "the patience of Job," but he hails it as an index of the trend of diplomacy towards the League of Nations ideal. The venerable Senator offered this view to the members of the Men's Association of the Montreal West United Church, whom he addressed in the church hall.

The address was frankly propaganda for the League of Nations, and in particular for the Canadian League of Nations Society, of which Sir George is president, but it was none the less interesting, and he had illuminating sidelights to throw on many general European questions.

Of the Chinese situation he had several things to say, emphasizing the thoroughly moderate attitude adopted by Britain from the start. In spite of the rash acts of the revolutionaries, he pointed out, "for the past six months Great Britain has manifested the patience of Job. Only once has a shot been fired; that was at Nanking, when there was murder in the air and British nationals had to be protected. Now, under the old order of things, Britain would not have stopped a minute. The peace mentality is so strongly developed now that all the nations are careful how they act, and consider the consequences."

In answer to a question put following his two-hour speech, Sir George explained that the League of Nations is helpless to intervene in China because there is no recognized government with which to negotiate. "The great disadvantage is," he observed, "that the League cannot interefere for the Cantonese or yet for the North."

The recent complications in Nicaragua gave the speaker another illustration of the universal disposition to avert war. When the United States found that the policy of President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg was leading the country perilously near the brink of hostilities, public protest from coast to coast forced a modification of policy, he said.

He blames the late President Wilson for the present attitude of his country towards the League of Nations. The United States did not enter the League, he declared, because Mr. Wilson ignored the Republican party, and later conducted an election with the League as a party question. Sir George expressed regrets that Wilson had not accepted the original reservations to the Covenant, which the Republicans in the Senate proposed before the election.

CO-OPERATION OF U.S.

Notwithstanding the failure of the United States to enter the League, however, Sir George declared that today that country is co-operating officially and unofficially with all the enterprises of the League of Nations. "The United States is just as unanimous as is Great Britain against war, at least," he asserted.

After describing the workings of the League in detail, its organization, achievements and history, the speaker drew a striking contrast between it in 1920 and in 1926. Sir George was present at the first meeting of the League in September, 1920, and was again a delegate at the most recent session of the Assembly on that historic occasion when Herr Stresemann and the other German delegates took their seats. "Oh, what an encouraging contrast it was," he said. "In 1920 the stock-in-trade of the League was hope and desire, but there was no plan, no achievements to its credit, and it had the critical attitude of the world to face in addition."

"There were cynics and doubters all around us in 1920," he continued, "and now after seven years we have a fully organized League of Nations, with fifty-six nations in the Assembly instead of twelve. It has a multitude of fine achievements and an accumulation of the strength of the Governments behind the delegates. Today the nations vie with each other in sending strong men to represent them."

He offered the testimony of authorities like Viscount Grey of Fallodon and Her Stresemann as proof of his contention that the past war would probably have been averted if anything like the present League of Nations had existed.

In making reference to the World Court as one of the four divisions of the League, Sir George paid a passing tribute to Elihu Root, whom he called the "most universally respected American living today." The speaker discussed some of the twenty-two decisions of the World Court settling international difficulties, and explained briefly something of the work already accomplished by the League. "We are still apart, but we have made progress," he said, reminding his hearers that "the League is just beginning a line of work which will not be finished for generations."

Many in the audience were enrolled as members of the Canadian League of Nations Society after the speech.

FESTIVAL AT BELLINGHAM BIG SUCCESS

Nearly 700 Victorians Make Special Excursion on C.P.R. Steamer Princess Louise to American City

50,000 PEOPLE SEE COLORFUL PARADE

Canadian Scottish Junior Pipe and Victoria City Temple Bands Attend — Alderman Litchfield Represents City

Favored by unexampled excursion weather, close to 700 Victorians journeyed to Bellingham yesterday on the C.P.R. steamer Princess Louise to participate in a celebration packed with more interesting events than have characterized any previous jubiliation in honor of the American city's official flower. The parade, which started soon after the Louise docked, presented a wonderful sight and was watched by a crowd estimated to number 50,000.

Victoria city was represented by Alderman H. O. Litchfield, in the absence of Mayor Pendray, and the Canadian Scottish Junior Pipe Band. In addition to the official representation, the Victoria City Temple Band, winners of the highest awards at the recent Musical Festival, went over to take part in the massed band musical competition.

Due to the fact that there were only two Highland bands included in the parade, one representing the Vancouver Police and the Victoria Pipe Band, there was no competition in in this class held, and the judges decided to split the first prize between the two. Everywhere along the route of march the youthful appearance of the Victoria boys was met with great favor and much applause greeted their splendid playing and marching.

FINE FLOATS IN PARADE

Decorated floats in the parade were beautiful and their combinations of colors were artistically displayed. Entries included a score of floats, more than twenty-five highly decorated cars, numerous demonstration cars and thousands of marchers, including many children, dressed in myriad costumes, from the various schools of Bellingham and adjoining districts.

The float carrying Queen Gertrude Berg, of Bellingham, and Queen Pauline Mitchell, of Mount Vernon, Skagit County, were two of the most outstanding sights in the parade and were greeted with rounds of applause and cheering throughout the whole distance.

Sharp at the hour set, D. Moore, Seatle aviator, released the bomb, carrying Canadian and American colors to open the proceedings. A few seconds later the parade moved, and for one hour and fourteen minutes from a given point the parade was in progress.

The banquet held at the Hotel Leopold, following the parade, in which a large number of dignitaries from British Columbia, American cities, Washington State and United States Army and Navy officials were present, Alderman H. O. Litchfield conveyed greetings on behalf of this city to the citizens of Bellingham, Washington and the United States as a whole. He referred to the peaceful relations of the two countries and hoped that the feeling of goodwill would continue.

INVITATIONS EXTENDED

Invitations were extended to the gathering to attend the Victoria Day celebration and also the sixtieth year of the Confederation of British Columbia Province celebration to be held in July. Mayor Louis D. Taylor, of Vancouver, and many others spoke.

Northwest cities represented included Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle, Everett, Tacoma, Mount Vernon, Sedro-Wooley, Anacortes, Burlington, New Westminster and many others from the outlying parts of British Columbia and Washington. Mrs. Josephine C. Preston, superintendent of education for the State of Washington, represented Washington.

The Princess Louise, both coming and going, was a scene of merriment. On each trip the City Temple Band and the Juvenile Pipers kept the throngs on the upper decks in a most contented mood, while forward and aft in the main saloons were two orchestras, which supplied catchy dance numbers to their many patrons. Canadian and United States Customs and immigration officials helped in every way to make the trip an enjoyable one.

View of Panama-Pacific Grain Termina Elevatorl

At a special meeting of the City Council yesterday it was decided to draft the by-law which is to be placed before the people for authorization to go ahead with the marketing of $500,000 in bonds for the Panama-Pacific Grain Terminals Ltd. The industrial committee in the meantime will investigate thoroughly the financial position of the company and make other inquiries so the council can recommend the passage of the by-law by the people. If passed, the company will commence almost immediately on the construction work. A bonding house is to guarantee the faithful completion of the elevator, so that the city's interests will be fully protected. Mr. A. J. Gibson and Mr. J. A. Mooney appeared before the council yesterday afternoon and promised to have the necessary information required by the council before submitting the by-law in the hands of the corporation's counsel and city solicitor before May 16.

JUBILEE PLANS ARE MATURING

JULY 1 CELEBRATION EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE APPOINT SUB-COMMITTEES

School Children to Hold Pageant at Willows—Programme to Be Drafted on Monday

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the celebration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee of Confederation by the July 1 celebration committee. At an executive meeting held in the Sons of Canada Hall last night, sub-committees were named and an outline of a pageant to be staged by school children heard.

Mr. Hall, principal of the George Jay School, told the executive of the arrangements being made by Victoria schools for the holding of a pageant at the Willows. Nineteen schools would be represented by approximately 800 children. The co-operation of the district municipalities is to be sought, however, so that some 1,500 school children are expected to participate. The sum of $700 was voted for the use of the city schools in this pageant. Other money votes may be made later to take care of the district municipalities.

A finance committee was appointed to make a draft of estimated revenue and expenditures. This committee comprises Messrs. F. McGregor, J. H. Gillespie, Alderman H. O. Holmes, Geo. McGregor, A. J. Watson, W. Spencer, T. S. Slater, Captain J. W. Troup, S. J. Drake, Norman Yarrow and C. J. V. Spratt.

A committee made up of members of the school boards of Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt was formed to take up the matter of the school children's pageant. This committee includes: Trustee Mrs. Jean Beckett, of Saanich; Trustee Moresby, of Victoria; Municipal Inspector Geo. Dean; Trustee Mrs. Isbister, of Esquimalt; Trustee Colonel Winsby, of Oak Bay, and Mr. Hall, principal of George Jay School, who has the drafted programme of the pageant.

The general programme committee consists of Mr. W. Straith, Mr. J. P. Watson, Mr. F. J. Sehl, Mr. C. E. Harper, Captain W. J. Cox, Mr. J. T. McDowell, Mrs. Crocker, Miss L. Bowron, Colonel D. Martin, Major Bullock-Webster, Mrs. Hebden Gillespie and Mr. D. P. Plunkett. The duty of this committee will be to draft a general programme and submit it to the executive for approval.

Arrangements for the sporting events will be turned over to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which organization offered its services in this respect to the executive last night. The following were appointed to the decoration committee: Mr. C. B. Sylvester, Mr. J. S. McMillan, Mr. G. W. Brooker and Miss Mabel Cameron.

The matter of appointing a manager was left to a later meeting, and also was the question of securing headquarters downtown.

The programme committee will meet at 8 o'clock Monday night, to discuss features for the three-day celebration, while the next executive meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night.

Saanich Will Show Rabbits At Congress

The Saanich Fur Farmers' Association held its monthly meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Building on Thursday. Capt. H. Babington, president, was in the chair. The subject of the rabbit exhibit for the poultry congress, to be held early in July at Ottawa, was gone into and the secretary was instructed to write the Department of Agriculture and the secretary of the poultry congress for full particulars as to the handling of the exhibits. Several members expressed their intention of placing some of their famous Saanich stock on exhibition. Stock raised by members of this association have taken a large share of the prizes in the big shows, both in this province and also in the State of Washington and even as far south as California.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Saanichton Agricultural Hall on Wednesday, June 6, to be followed by a box show. In this connection the secretary was instructed to send to the secretary of the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' Association for ribbons to be awarded at this show. Mr. J. S. Hickford, who is an official judge of the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' Association, will place the awards.

The Saanich Fur Farmers' Association is the only association on Vancouver Island holding a paid-up charter under the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' Association at the present time.

It was announced that arrangements of the prize list for the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society's Fall exhibition (rabbit section) were well in hand, twelve special prizes having already been offered, including two silver cups.

Women's Institutes

GARDEN CITY

The Garden City Women's Institute held a regular meeting on Thursday in the Garden City Institute Hall. All regular business was dispensed, then the meeting took the form of a social function.

Canon Hinchliffe, M.P.P., gave an interesting and instructive talk on "Mothers' Pensions."

In addition to the address, a programme was rendered as follows: Instrumental duet by Mesdames Scurrah and Porter, two readings by Mrs. Dearborn, vocal solo, Mrs. Phillips, while Miss E. Fryatt did her part with a piano solo.

The hall and tables were very tastefully decorated by Mrs. Maude Hall in wild flowers.

The guessing contest for the names of various firms in Victoria was won by Mrs. Griffin, who lacked only two answers of having all correct. This was in many instances extremely humorous.

The drawing competition, which was unique in that all competitors were blindfold, was won by Mrs. Love.

A silver collection was taken, augmenting the general fund of the institute.

At the regular monthly meeting in June there will be a kitchen apron competition. A suitable prize will be given the winner.

PEGGY AND LEONARD SWALLOW, children of Mrs. May E. Swallow of Winnipeg

"I HAD got into a run down condition. Pimples began to break out all over my face and body. I actually hated to go out, and have people see me. Finally a friend of mine asked me to give Fleischmann's Yeast a trial. I started by taking 4 or 5 cakes of Yeast a day. In about two weeks my skin started to clear up. I continued and was surprised at the way it helped me. My skin is now as smooth as a baby's."
Edward Vink, Vancouver, B. C.

EIGHT

"FOR A LONG TIME I had not been well. My digestion was very poor. I often had pains in my stomach and I was generally run down. I had heard of a remedy that everybody said was quite effective—Fleischmann's Yeast. But I did not try it at once. However, the pains in my stomach became more frequent. I lost all interest in food. Finally I decided to try three or four cakes of Yeast a day in the hope of effecting a change. After a few weeks I found that I could eat anything I liked without fear. This was a year ago. Fleischmann's Yeast improved my general health so much that I have continued its use—a cake dissolved in hot water three times a day. It keeps me entirely free from indigestion and in the best of health."
Maria Dubois, Quebec, P. Q.

"Irritable, continually out of sorts—my children were a daily trial"

"LAST SPRING around Easter I realized that the two younger children, Peggy and Leonard, were not feeling well.

"Both had lost their appetites. They were nervous and irritable—continually upset. I didn't know what to do with them.

"I had heard Fleischmann's Yeast highly spoken of as a tonic. So one day when I was down-town I bought half a dozen cakes to start them on.

"They seemed to like it from the first and ate it as you would celery—sprinkled with salt.

"Soon they were both in the best of health again and I believe we have Fleischmann's Yeast to thank for their improvement."
Mrs. May E. Swallow, Winnipeg, Man.

TO regain your health and energy you must keep your system always clean and active. Fleischmann's Yeast does just that.

Yeast is a fresh corrective food, a living plant, grown in a nutritious extract of malt and grain.

This active vegetable substance promotes digestion and cleanses the entire intestinal tract, preventing the poisons of putrefaction from being absorbed into the blood and keeping the skin clear and free from blemishes.

Unlike cathartics, yeast gradually strengthens the intestinal muscles and trains them to work by themselves.

Start today to eat Fleischmann's Yeast. All grocers have it. Buy two or three days' supply at a time and keep in a cool dry place. Write for a free copy of the latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. L-993, The Fleischmann Company, 1166 Burrard St., Vancouver, B. C.

"I AM A POLICEMAN—on night duty. I work six weeks out of seven, pounding the sidewalks. Some time ago I had to leave my beat. I even had to go to bed, I was suffering so from intestinal trouble brought on by constipation. A friend of mine told me about Fleischmann's Yeast. I took it three times a day before meals and now I can honestly say that of all the things I tried I got real satisfaction only from Fleischmann's Yeast. It also worked wonders in ridding me of skin trouble. I continue to take Yeast for my athletic training, and today I can compete with the best in Canada in athletics."
Wm. R. Clark, Hamilton, Ont.

This Easy, Natural Way to have your rightful, vigorous health

Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast regularly every day, one cake before each meal: just plain in small pieces, or on crackers, in fruit juice, milk or water. For constipation physicians say to dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) before meals and at bedtime. (Be sure that a regular time for evacuation is made habitual.) Dangerous cathartics will gradually become unnecessary.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

A frock as smart for the young girl as it is for the matron is sketched above. It depends for its charm on smart simplicity of line, and on very effective use of horizontal tucks.

The material is sheer beige crepe and the dress is made over a brown crepe foundation skirt, with an inset of the brown extending up one side. The tucks are of varying width and the two bows add to the frock's softness.

Soft grey crepe, with black satin for the contrast material, would be effective. One might also use two shades of blue crepe.

Nerves on Edge

When the nerves go wrong everything is wrong.

The whole human body including each and every organ is dependent on the nervous system for energy and direction.

When nerve force becomes exhausted the organs fail in their functions and the result is discomfort and pain.

Headache, neuritis, sciatic-rheumatism are often developed. But there is also restlessness, nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness and depression and discouragement.

To regain health and vigor the nervous system must be restored by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The use of narcotics and opiates only relieve pain at terrible expense to the nervous system. Lasting relief can only come by feeding the nerves. Your system has failed to do this and it is therefore necessary to employ Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to bring the nervous system back to normal.

PRINTERS' DANCE IS JOLLY AFFAIR

Nearly two hundred and fifty guests were present at the dance held last evening at Alexandra House under the auspices of the Victoria Typographical Union, No. 201. PARIS DISAPPROVES BOYISH BOB STYLE

Frills and Furbelows to Take Place of More Severe Feminine Fashions

PARIS, May 6.—The boyish bob is about to be routed by the frills and furbelows, the ruffles and bows, that make up the very feminine fashions introduced this Spring by the Parisian dictators of style, according to the pronouncements of the international hairdressing exhibition held in Paris recently.

This particular haircut, with its tendency to elongate the neck, needed to nestle, to be pleasing, into the framing background of a great fur collar or at least into a fairly high turnover collar of some sort. The incongruity of such a length of neck rising above the flat necklines of the gowns and low, furless collars of this season's coats, has been distressingly apparent for some time. Various expedients were adopted to break that awkward line—the shoulder flower, the great chou of net attached at the back of the necklace, and the scarf, tied at one side, being familiar methods.

That none of these solutions was very satisfactory has spelled the doom of the boyish bob it is now asserted. Not that this means the immediate or even quick return of long hair. Hair does not grow so readily as all that, nor would women be likely to give up so easily the comfort of short locks. Both feminine opinion and reluctant hair must be coaxed along in easy stages, these experts admit, the first stage being a slightly longer haircut, known as "Joan of Arc," or "Ninon," with a straight outline well down on the neck.

One version of this new bob allows the top front hair to sweep back from the forehead, uncut until it reaches the low point on the neck designated as the proper length. Waves in the shorter hair at either side of the face provide individually becoming lines. In the evening, when bobbed hair of any cut is declared to be "out," the advantage of having this long middle section is peculiarly apparent, for it can be swept about the back of the head and fastened at one side to provide a close foundation for the little puffs, braids or twists that are designed to be pinned on about the base of the head as the wearer chooses. Or, again, the hair can be drawn rather high on the back of the head with this long centre section forming a mass of piquant, tossing curls.

Manuel is showing new transformations known as demi-wigs, from the fact that the hair at the back reaches just to the shoulders and may be handled just as the growing hair is arranged, in a low knot or wrapped about the head.

Two British Women Hold Important Posts

No less than $50,000 a year is the salary of Miss Edith Beesley (right), who last January was appointed manager of the West End branch of the Southern Life Assurance Association, England. Miss Beesley is on the councils of a number of women's organizations. She began her career in South Africa with a Canadian insurance agency. On the left is Mrs. Betty Forster Bovill, who for three years has been agency manager in Britain for the African Life Assurance Society. She is the wife of Mr. Forster Bovill, the old Cambridge soccer blue, of Canada. The success of these two women is representative of the strides made by their sex in the realm of British business affairs.

RUSSIANS' RECITAL HAS INTEREST HERE

Stankevich Family, Known on Local Concert Platform as "Kedon," Give Vancouver Programme

Among the Vancouver entrants in the recent Victoria Musical Festival was Aaron Stankevich, whose name will be recalled here in connection with the family's arrival from Russia about three years ago. Remaining in Victoria for some months at that time, the three children became quite well known on the concert platform under the name of Kedon, before they moved to Vancouver, so the following reference in a Vancouver paper under date of March 2 will be read with interest here:

"For some years, the family of Stankevich has played a prominent part in the musical life of Vancouver; a fact which was recognized in attendance and enthusiasm at the Women's Building on Saturday night, when a piano recital was given by Mina and Ella, assisted by Aaron, violinist.

"The two pianistes, though young in years, are possessed of a mature musicianship that steadily grows more seasoned and adroit; while the young violinist, too, reveals an impressive platform style and a surprising degree of platform finish. It was not surprising, therefore, that on this occasion many recall items were demanded during the evening.

COMPLETE ASSURANCE

"Ella's playing was notable, most of all, for its its complete assurance. Her first group contained 'Pastoral and Variations' (Mozart), 'The Lark' (Glinka-Balakir) and 'Seguidilla' (Albeniz); and the contrasting moods and descriptives of these were finely realized, much because of interpretative eloquence, but more because a keyboard command permitted rhythmic fluency, phrasal clarity and an even beauty of touch.

"With the same resourceful facility she met the many great technical demands of her second group. 'Concert Etude' (Smetana), Chopin's 'Black Key Etude,' Scriabine's 'Prelude,' for the left hand, and Rhapsodie No. 8' (Liszt); and then, immediately after, contributed a brilliant piano in a De Beriot 'Concerto,' played with Aaron.

POWER TO CHARM

"In the pianism of Mina there was not the sauve strength nor comprehensive fluency of Ella's playing; yet there was a greater power to delineate and persuade, to move and charm the hearer, which seemed the result of a fervent insight and an unerring instinct for dramatic values.

"This was felt in her entrance item, Chopin's 'Fantasio Impromptu,' which much-played work she invested with a fresh magic. Followed a Scriabine 'Etude' and Chopin's 'Valse' in C sharp minor; and then, at her second appearance, Chopin's flat minor 'Polonaise,' Liszt's 'Sonnet' and the Mendelssohn B minor 'Prelude.' Of these, the 'Sonnet' and phrases of the 'Polonaise' were especially eloquent and haunting.

"Aaron's performance in De Beriot's 'Concerto' (Op. 76, No. 7) was wholly commendable. The technical quality of his violinism is unusually brilliant for one of his years; his style and interpretation are quite distinguished and even authoritative; and, when time has furnished tonal mellowness, here should be a violinist of commanding artistry."

"HOODOO" DANCE TO BE HELD AT CLUB

The Royal Victoria Yacht Club will hold a "hoodoo" dance on Friday, May 13, for members of the club and their friends. The superstitions attached to the date set for the dance is not causing the committee members any concern, and a big surprise has been planned, the exact nature of which is not disclosed. Tickets for the dance may be obtained from Cross & Co., or from members of the committee, which is headed by Mr. Cliff Adams.

Mission Bands to Rally

OFFICERS ELECTED BY LADIES' GUILD

Reports Covering Activities of Year Prove Satisfactory—Tag Day on October 22

Mrs. Alice Thomson presided at the annual meeting of the Victoria branch of the Ladies' Guild for Sailors on Thursday afternoon.

In the election of officers the results were as follows: President, Mrs. Alice Thomson; first vice-president, Mrs. R. W. Kerr; second vice-president, Mrs. Wilby; secretary, Mrs. Sayer; treasurer, Mrs. Gordon Smith; house committee, Mrs. Oscar Bass and Miss B. Pooley; relief committee, Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Gordon Smith; hospital visitors, Mrs. Sayer, Jubilee, and Miss B. Pooley, St. Joseph's.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. Sayer, was presented and showed a very satisfactory year's work. The house committee, Mrs. O. Bass and Miss B. Pooley, were congratulated upon the cheerful and attractive appearance of the institute, which reflects great credit upon its custodians, Mr. and Mrs. Rodway. A considerable amount of work has been accomplished through the efforts of the relief committee, Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Gordon Smith, and the progress of those who have been assisted has been very gratifying to the guild. The annual shipment of boxes to the lighthouses at Christmas time was made as usual and greatly appreciated by the thirty-two recipients of these remembrances, also twenty boxes of books were sent out during the Summer.

ACTIVE YEAR

The annual birthday and shower were successful and well attended, and Trafalgar Day was celebrated with an evening lecture by the Dean of Columbia. Two bridge parties, arranged by Mrs. Gordon Smith and Mrs. Wilders, and by Mrs. G. P. Clarke and Mrs. R. W. Kerr helped the funds of the institute, as did a donation of $25 from the Navy League Chapter. Christmas dinner was served to nine seamen and the institute kept open house during the holidays. Mrs. Sayer visited the Jubilee Hospital regularly throughout the year, and Miss B. Pooley visited St. Joseph's and some special outside cases. Gifts were taken the patients at Christmas time and on other occasions.

The wool committee, under the convenership of Mrs. Goodlake, had done excellent work. Reference were made to the great loss sustained by the guild in the death of Mrs. Hiscocks, who had been a valued member for so long, and also to the death of the young stoker from H.M.S. Curlew, in whom the guild had been so interested.

The number of men registering at the Connaught Seamen's Institute during the year was 2,524, the number of free beds 150, free meals 100. The hall of the institute has been used as a Sunday school by the cathedral. Mrs. Sayer closed her report with congratulations to Mrs. Thomson through whose constant watchfulness and ready courtesy the success of the institute is due.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Gordon Smith, gave the receipts for the year as $1,067.81, the expenditures $941.09, balance $126.22. Mrs. Goodlake, reporting for the wool committee, gave forty-seven and a half pounds of wool as the amount purchased for the knitting with a result of 124 pairs of socks, twenty-five jerseys and two coats turned in.

ANNUAL TAG DAY

It was announced that the annual tag day for the institute will be held on October 22 and it was decided to hold a garden party on Saturday afternoon, June 11, for the funds of the institute. The various stalls and attractions will be in the hands of the following ladies: Home cooking, Mrs. Vernon McManus; candy, Mrs. Fisher; tea, Mrs. Wilders, Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. James, Mrs. Finmore and Mrs. Surphlis; ice cream, Mrs. Sayer and Mrs. Wilby; fish pond, Mrs. Claudette and Miss B. Pooley; clock golf, Miss Sayer. Mrs. Gordon Smith will hold a silver tea at her home, 111 Medina Street, on Wednesday afternoon, May 25, for the funds of the institute.

The programme consisted of: Piano solo, Miss Christine Reid; reading, Miss Lucy Shaw; piano solo, Miss Jean Campbell; violin solo, Chris Miller; vocal solo, Miss Viola Johnson; reading, Mrs. Hollins; vocal solo, Miss M. Weddings

Clark—McVittie-Taylor

The wedding took place in Colombo recently of Major Arthur Northcote Lemarchand Clark, only son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Clark, of Lancing, Sussex, and Maev McVittie-Taylor, younger daughter of the late Rev. H. McVittie-Taylor, M.A., of Dublin, and Mrs. Patrick Mullane, now of Southsea, Hants. The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop of Colombo, vested in cope and mitre and assisted by two chaplains and full choir, in the presence of a large gathering. A reception was afterwards held at the Colombo Garden Club, over 250 guests being present.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Admiral John Moresby, R.N., well known in connection with his discoveries in New Guinea. Admiral Moresby first visited these waters as a young lieutenant in H.M.S. Thetis in 1852, when Victoria was a newly established trading station of the Hudson's Bay Company. A vivid account of his voyage, and a punitive expedition undertaken against members of the Cowichan and Nanaimo tribes of Indians is given in his book, "Two Admirals."

Mrs. A. N. L. Clark is also a niece of L. Adams Beck, the writer, equally well known as E. Barrington, whose home is in Victoria, and who is now traveling in Europe and the Orient.

CHAPTER XXIII

ME. HAIGHT RECEIVES A JOLT

Like that interesting animal, the weasel, who of all bloodthirsty things that stalk and kill is considered the most relentless, Mr. James Turnbull believed in having more than one secret laid. Not that he feared any enemy; in this respect also he was similar to the red-eyed hunter of the trails. But an inherent and developed caution prompted vigilance, which to Turnbull's mind was not only watchfulness, but the digging of retreats which would spell immunity if ever danger threatened.

Then, too, it behoved one with so many irons in the fire as had he not to heat them to his shaping at one forge. Rarely did he let his right hand know what his left hand was doing; therefore the room in which he was sitting today with Mr. Haight opposite him and a bottle, siphon and glasses between them, had been taken by him solely for the purpose of discussing certain matters with the ex-banker, one of which was Wesley Trollivor. Haight, of course, was not aware of this fact. Neither did he know that another room very similarly furnished had been taken in another part of the city by Turnbull for the express purpose of discussing Haight with Trollivor. Even the brainiest man in Harport could scarcely guess so much.

On the table between the two men lay the deed of sale for a half interest in the Western Oil Lands, which bore David Webster's signature, and ten one thousand dollar bills beside it.

Turnbull's eyes were on the money as he pushed the decanter and glass toward the older man.

"You told me this Webster was a hare-brained fool," he growled. "I think you've got him wrong. This don't look like it, anyway."

He motioned towards the banknotes.

"It's just his conceit," explained Haight. "He'll come over with the balance all right."

"Didn't act anyways suspicious, did he?"

"No-o," said Haight hesitatingly, "not exactly suspicious. Oh, Webster believes the thing's on the level all right. I'm not just sure that he altogether trusts Trollivor, though."

"Ah!"

"Trollivor's acting queer lately. You know that, and you have reason. He almost spoiled our chance of landing Webster on this thing. The idiot didn't seem to have any heart for the scheme in the first place, and when it came to closing the deal he seemed to get cold feet."

Turnbull filled his glass, and nodded to Haight.

They drank.

"Mr. Haight," said Turnbull insinuatingly, "it might be a whole lot better for you if you were managing Webster's affairs alone!"

To this Haight vouchsafed no reply.

"Of course," continued Turnbull meaningly, "in the event of Trollivor not turning up—"

He paused and gazed at the man before him.

Haight mopped his brow. He refilled his glass with a shaking hand.

"If we only knew where he was," he groaned. "Good heavens, man, he's liable to go off his head entirely, and divulge all he knows. If Webster—"

He caught himself up suddenly.

"What about Webster?" Turnbull asked.

"I may as well tell you the truth," Haight said. "When Trollivor disappeared those papers and that money disappeared with him. Well, Webster gave both papers and money to me this morning."

"Then Webster knows where Trollivor is, you think."

"No. But he's the friend of a man who does know, and that man sent him the papers."

"How did you learn all this?"

"Webster told Trollivor and me about a friend of his who had come to this city in search of a certain man. Trollivor was that man. Seems he had betrayed this fellow's sister. I believe Trollivor has been made away with by this acquaintance of Webster's."

"And did you put it up to Webster?"

"I'm not such a fool," Haight retorted. "No, I'm having every move David Webster makes watched. Sooner or later this friend of his is bound to show up, or communicate with Webster in some way; then we'll nab him."

"Humph!"

Turnbull cut the tip from a cigar and settled back in his chair.

"Why bother about Trollivor?" he asked quietly. "If he's gone, we'll have five hundred thousand dollars to divide between two instead of three; isn't that right?"

"But," stammered Haight, sitting up straight, "isn't Trollivor—I understand that he was engaged to your—"

Turnbull silenced him with a gesture.

"She'll survive the shock, I guess," he chuckled.

"But," cried Haight, fighting between elation and horror, "if he's been murdered? Great God!"

"What we don't know needn't worry us," said Turnbull callously. "We didn't do it, did we? Now what's worrying you?" he asked.

"This fool Webster," groaned Haight. "He's simply giving the Parnley millions away hand over fist."

Turnbull shrugged.

"It's his money, isn't it?"

"Certainly," answered Haight quickly.

"Let him spend it, then."

"This Webster," said Haight, weighing his words carefully, "is a peculiar compound of vice and cunning, abetted by a perverted sense of humor. He seems to take a fiendish delight in baulking us at every turn. We have only to make a suggestion and he immediately argues against it."

"But," interposed Turnbull, "he accepted the half interest in the fake oilfield readily enough."

"Because he thought he saw a chance to double his money. Yes. He's wide-awake enough to his own interests."

"Perhaps," said Turnbull drily, "that's why you think him stubborn."

Haight shot him an ugly look. He wondered if Turnbull had guessed anything. If so, the beatific expression on the man's face gave no sign that he had.

"Look at his high-handed manner of cancelling the Drowned Acres lease," he reminded Turnbull. "You were pretty well stirred up over that, if I remember correctly."

"Oh, I'm not trying to defend Webster," said Turnbull. "All I'm trying to do is to tell you not to worry over what he does with his money. He's not going to bother you long, anyway. At the rate he's going, it'll be a daisy caveriet for him in a year or so. He'll kill himself by dissipation; that's if one of those thugs he's surrounded himself with don't stick a knife between his ribs before old John Barleycorn puts him down for the count."

He refilled Haight's glass.

"Odd thing, his letting booze get him this way, though. I understand as a boy he was hell-set against it. Wasn't that responsible for the rupture between him and his uncle Parnley?"

"It was," said Haight. "Young Webster was then, as he is now, a selfish, conceited idiot. Parnley thought the world of the boy. Why, just to please him he would have stopped the manufacture of liquor entirely if it hadn't been for me. I convinced him that Webster was simply trying his power over him; that to allow him to deliberately kill a business which was paying the enormous profits his distillery was paying would make him a laughing-stock in the community."

"I see. And the old whisky king attempted to curb the cub, eh?"

"Exactly. But he didn't do it. Webster went away. Parnley was pretty well broken up, but he never showed by word or sign that he cared. He attempted to trace Webster, though; spent thousands of dollars in trying to find him. Then, as the years passed, he gave up!"

"Never any word of him?"

Haight squirmed uneasily.

"That's the queer part of it. He did hear from him. Once a year he received a letter. It was left under the door; it bore no date nor postmark. It was always worded the same:

"'I am willing to return when you are willing to close your distillery.'"

POSSIBILITIES IN SEED PRODUCTION

Potatoes and Peas Promise Particularly Good Results in British Columbia

In planning the rotations at the Dominion Experimental Station, Invermere, the introduction of cash crops is given considerable attention, writes Mr. R. G. Newton, superintendent. The two crops that are particularly promising in this respect are potatoes and peas. In publishing reports the value of potatoes is based on the commercial price in the Fall of the year, which, on the average, is somewhere about $25 per ton. Now the average price of certified seed potatoes for the past few years has been a little better than $50 per ton, or double the price of commercial stocks.

Eastern British Columbia is well adapted to the production of strong healthy tubers with the ability to reproduce themselves. The seed market for northern grown stocks in the United States is being developed, and farmers should grow potatoes in sufficient quantity to be able to ship in car lots. Naturally the production of seed requires more care in planting, rogueing, harvesting, storing and in financing, but the returns warrant an increase in production.

The Station has also demonstrated the possibilities in the production of both field and garden peas for seed. This year will see many farmers growing garden or canning peas for seed. One firm alone is prepared to contract for 200 tons of seed at attractive prices. These are possibilities that the farmer should not overlook. While the production of seed requires considerable care, the prices and returns are attractive and should interest many farmers.

Washington Lifts Ban On Milk From Quebec

WASHINGTON, May 6. — United States officials today decided to lift the embargo on milk and cream from Quebec. Public health authorities here have notified the Canadian Legation that instructions are being sent to all border points that the embargo is no longer in effect except on milk originating in the city of Montreal. The embargo was ordered because of a typhoid epidemic in Montreal. It originally applied within a radius of 200 miles from Montreal.

PRIZE BULL SOLD

TRURO, N.S., May 6.—"Tom Murray," a prize-winning yearling Guernsey bull, raised by T. D. Blaikie, was shipped today from Londonderry Station to Wellington, N.Z., where it has been purchased by Hon. O. Hankin, Minister of Agriculture. The price is said to be about $1,000. The Guernsey will be carried to Vancouver by rail, thence by steamer to its destination.

Sidney Balltossers Gain First Victory In Commercial Ball

Error in Seventh Inning of First Class Baseball Game Allows Lind to Score and Give Millmen 2-1 Victory Over Tillicums in First Game of Season—Large Crowd Witnesses Pitchers' Battle

A low peg by Hilton to the third sack in the first of the seventh inning allowed Lind, of Sidney, to cross the home plate and chalk up the first win of the season in the Victoria and District Commercial Baseball League to the millmen, by a 2-1 score, at the Royal Athletic Park last night.

The 1927 season was officially opened when S. Thomas, secretary of the league, pitched the first ball to T. Rigg, vice-president, immediately following which Harold Fetherstone, official umpire of the league, called "Play ball," and once again the ball season was under way.

One of the biggest crowds in the history of the league witnessed the teams dish up seven innings of fast and snappy ball, and not until the fatal error in the seventh was the game decided. The game developed into a real pitchers' battle and Williams, on the mound for the millmen, and Pete Campbell, southpaw of the clubmen, were pitching good ball.

FIRST INNING

The first inning, with the visitors to bat, was fast and furious, and only three of their batsmen faced Pete Campbell, the first two men being out at first and the third man whiffed the air.

Barr, who was the first batter to face Williams, husky twirling star from the Saanich Arm, struck out. McLaren looked too good to the pitcher, and he issued him a free pass to the initial sack. This player was put out later trying to steal third. Saville whiffed the air for the third out.

Simpson, who was holding down the third sack for the millmen, started things moving in the second inning when he connected for a two-bagger. Peterson hit at the air in vain. Steele singled, sending Simpson to third. Simpson stole home on an error to give the winners their first run. Crossley and Lind struck out to retire the side.

Pete Campbell, pitching ace of the Tillicums, came within an ace of winning his own game when he crossed the home plate for the only run. Facing Williams in the second innign, he reached first with a hot grounder to right field. Hilton singled, driving Campbell to second. A double play, W. Crossley to Lind, put out Hilton, who was going to second, and Steel reaching first. Anderson singled to score Campbell and the score was tied. Camsusa struck out for the third out.

For the next four innings the teams dished up a brand of ball suitable for senior company, and, although Campbell got himself into a couple of tight holes, he managed to pull himself out without any serious trouble.

FATAL SEVENTH

With the arrival of the fatal seventh inning L. Crossley faced the pitcher for the first man up for the Millmen, but he was out on a fly to centre field. Lind doubled, Williams struck out for two men down for the visitors. Mitchell singled, and stole second. Lind, who was now on the third sack, took a lead off, and after Campbell had pitched the ball, Hilton pegged to third, the ball passing between the third baseman's legs and allowing Lind to come home and win the game for Sidney.

The Tillicums retired via the three up and three out route in the last of the seventh. Williams, on the mound for the winners, was credited with eight strikeouts, while Pete Campbell, for the Clubmen, made seven of the opposing batsmen whiff the air in vain.

Harold Fetherstone umpired the game and the teams were:

Sidney—Mitchell, Lines, W. Crossley, Simpson, Peterson, Steele, L. Crossley, Lind and Williams.

Tillicums—Barr, McLaren, Saville, Campbell, Hilton, Steel, Anderson, Cann and Camsusa.

GOLF CLUB TITLE AT STAKE TODAY

QUALIFYING ROUND TO BE PLAYED FOR CHAMPIONSHIP AT OAK BAY LINKS

Work on Clubhouse Proceeding Rapidly—Temporary Building Now in Use at Victoria Club

Play starts today at the Oak Bay links of the Victoria Golf Club for the club championship and the Harvey Combe Bowl, emblematic of that honor. The qualifying round of eighteen holes is to be played today, for which competitors will choose their own opponents and starting times. The sixteen with lowest scores will qualify, and the rest of the players will be arranged in flights according to the number of entries.

The present holder of the club championship is Jack Matson, and it is expected that there will be some very close and interesting play among a number of the younger players of the club before the disposition of the title this year is finally decided.

Good progress is being made with the demolition of the old clubhouse and the temporary building has been completed. The club's staff is in possession and meals are being served as usual. It is expected that the new clubhouse will be completed and ready for use in about three months.

Senior Ball League Teams Will Swing Into Action Today

Sons of Canada and Eagles Will Meet in Opening Game at Royal Athletic Park at 3 o'Clock—Mayor Pendray Will Pitch First Ball—Kerr Will Work on Mound for Birdmen, Parfitt for Sons

Today at three o'clock the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League will officially usher in the 1927 season with the Sons of Canada, last year's runners-up, meeting the Eagles.

Mayor J. Carl Pendray, has consented to make his appearance today on the mound. At the receiving end Dave MacFarlane, who has done a lot for the game of baseball, will make an effort to catch the first ball to be thrown by Mayor Pendray.

Bobby Ross, a well known figure in local baseball circles, is at the helm of the Eagles this year and has visions of pulling his boys through to the pennant. The birdmen have, according to the management, a strong aggregation this season and one that will go a long way in quest of the city title.

Manager Ross, in releasing his team for today's game, feels confident on the eve of the battle for baseball supremacy.

Johnny Kerr, who is the old standby of the Eagles' pitching staff, will start on the mound, and Bobby Ross will be at the receiving end. Ross Oatman will hold down the first base. Johnny Latham, a young player who has been brought along from the Commercial League, will play second today in his first senior game. Today his old followers of the Commercial League will be out to see him in action. Art Sangster, another snappy little player who has come from the other league, will perform at short. "Hap" Gandy will hold down the third sack to complete the infield.

George Gandy, Tommy Wachter and Harry Down, a newcomer to the city, will run around in the outfield chasing fly balls.

The Sons of Canada are keeping their line-up under sealed orders until the game, but followers of the hard ball pastime feel that Cy. Milne, congenial manager of the Canadians, is going to put one over.

Ray Parfitt, star chucker of the Canadians' camp, will do the heavy work on the mound, while Massey, who hails from the Prairies, will be at the receiving end.

The following players are on the Sons' roster and from this list a good team will undoubtedly be selected: Holman, McKenzie, Curtis, Devereaux, Passmore, Cummins, Belcher, Cook, Dowman, Stanyar and More.

On Monday night the United Commercial Travelers, last year's champions, and the Eagles will meet at 6:15 o'clock.

GOLF

By P. J. GAUDIN

Instructor at Skokie Country Club and Union League Club, Chicago

STRAIGHT LEFT AND TIMING

Suppose we continue the same experiment of sitting at a table with the left arm extended straight in front, as we did in showing the use of the straight left arm in the golf swing. The arm is straight in front with the fingers closed about as they are in grasping a golf club.

This is a double experiment, showing the action of the wrist and more than a hint of timing, the absolute essential and culmination of the golf swing.

With the arm straight in front, the hand closed and the knuckles up, keep the arm still, but move the hand as far to the right as possible, using only the muscles of the wrist in the movement. The fore knuckles touching the table will describe an arc of a few inches to the right. Then literally throw the hand as far to the left as possible, keeping the arm motionless and performing the throwing motion entirely with the wrist. If the movement is not free, note whether the left arm is stiffened by tense muscles. If so, go through the whole procedure over and over until you know the arm is straight, but not stiff, and that the hand is thrown to the right and left as far as possible. That is all there is to wrist action. Right here is a word of caution. Put the arm back and bend the wrist upwards. Now take a good look at the curve the wrist makes and determine that you never will see your wrist look like that at any time during a golf swing. There is no time when the wrist should move otherwise than as you saw it during the first test.

Now make the straight left arm swing from the shoulder, sweeping the arm as far to the right and then as far to the left as the table will permit. Then combine the movements, throwing the hand back with the wrist as the arm goes to the right and flirting it with all speed as the arm goes toward the left. Then note that the arm is exactly in its original position when it is straight in front and you get a full realization of what is meant by timing. It is the culmination of every bodily effort put into the swing at the exact instant the club and ball come into contact.

Cincinnati Reds Win Over Boston Braves

Two Homers Are Knocked in Only Big League Game Played Yesterday—Kelly Knocks Pill Out of Lot, a Feat Seldom Accomplished—Score Is 5-3—Seattle Defeat Missions in Ten Innings, 4-3

NATIONAL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, May 6.—The start of the Eastern invasion by the Western clubs of the National League was set for today, but only one game of four scheduled was played, rain interfering with contests here and in Philadelphia and Brooklyn.

In the lone encounter the Cincinnati Reds triumphed over the Braves at Boston by a 5 to 3 count. Carl Mays twirled for the invaders and chalked up his first victory of the year.

In the opening inning Kelly poled out a homer over the left field wall, a feat that had been accomplished only twice before. Ethan Allen led the Cincinnati attack with a homer and two singles in four times at bat.

Sportive Punches

By the "Old 'Un"

There is no doubt Jack Dempsey has been a friend to the sport writer who may at any time during Dempsey's ascendancy have been short of a subject for copy. He certainly was well, or at least persistently, press-agented.

* * * * * * *

And if our theatrical friend, wise in his generation, will not think ill of us, we have just another word to say about him at the present juncture.

* * * * * * *

They, meaning a section of the sport writers aforesaid, are at present making a little bullabaloo over the fact that the latest is that Jack is going to take his gloves down again and is going to fight one PAOLINO UZCUDUN (call him Pauly, for short).

* * * * * * *

The Old 'Un expressed the opinion quite a long time ago that Jack was through as a fighter, even before the Tunney fight, and certainly has seen no reason to change his opinion after the Tunney fight, BUT . . .

* * * * * * *

Although he does not think Dempsey is good for another big fight he does think he is good for another big purse. RICKARD evidently thinks so, and Rickard makes few mistakes in the line of big fight business.

* * * * * * *

Paolino has been nursed along for the purpose. Any time he fights before tackling Dempsey, back Paolino to win. When and if he fights Dempsey, ca' canny.

* * * * * * *

Paolino is something like Firpo, BUT, unless Dempsey (if he meets him) can knock him out pronto, Paolino is apt to do later what Firpo did earlier, because Paolino can take a lot of knocking about and warms up to it the longer he goes, although no boxer.

* * * * * * *

If WILLARD was worth a big "farewell" purse after he had been dethroned, surely Dempsey is, but the latter is just as much "through" as a fighter as was Willard before he took his last wad of the public's money.

* * * * * * *

But, if they are going to spring this thing on us, they should spring it on us with as little delay as possible. The longer a defeated fighter remains in obscurity, the less likely is he to draw a big gate when he does come back to lift his final lump of dough.

SUGGESTS CUP BE OPEN TO AMATEURS

Calder Would Allow Them to Compete With Pros for Hockey's Premier Prize

OTTAWA, May 6.—The National Hockey League would oppose the transfer of the Ottawa franchise to any other city, and the United States clubs would be the first to insist that it remain in the capital, Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, said in a speech last night at a banquet given by the City Council and other citizens to the world's champion Senators. A great audience had gathered to rejoice over the bringing back to this city of the Stanley Cup, but they received something of a shock when a telegram was read from Frank Ahearn, president of the club, who was unable to be present, stating that he intended to resign his position, but that he would use his best efforts to dispose of his holdings in the team to Ottawa interests so that the team would continue to represent this city. The danger that he would not be successful in this caused no little misgiving on the part of the fans assembled, but they were encouraged when Mr. Ahearn's father, the prominent financier, Mr. T. Ahearn, assured them that while his son might want to be relieved of the responsibility connected with heading the association, he would not drop out altogether but would continue to back the team as in the years past.

Mr. Calder made an important suggestion with regard to the Stanley Cup, which for the last thirty-four years since it was first donated by Lord Stanley, the then Governor-General of Canada, has stood as the premier prize of hockey in this country.

The proposal of the president was that in addition to the usual league schedule there be a general elimination series, in which any hockey team on the continent, professional or amateur, could enter.

He pointed out that in the Old Country amateur teams played against professionals in the cup games, but as a rule the professionals won out.

The whole history of hockey in Canada is linked up with the Stanley Cup, Mr. Calder explained. There is not a square inch "of the battered old mug" which has not cut into it the name of some hockey player. It is the greatest trophy in hockey and as such should be open to teams from one ocean to the other.

The Stanley Cup was formally presented to the Senators by Dr. P. D. Rose.

New Link in Transcontinental Highway

(1) Main Street of Banff Seen From Sulphur Mountain. (2) A Section of the Banff-Windermere Highway Passing Through the Picturesque Sinclair Canyon. (3) Rugged Country Through Which the New Highway Winds. (4) The C.P.R. Chateau, Lake Louise.

THE opening of the Field-Golden Highway this Summer will mark another great step in the completion of the all-Canadian highway from coast to coast. The continuation of the motor road, which last year was extended from Lake Louise to Field, has been carried on this Winter by the Parks Department, and penetrates fifteen miles farther into the mountains to the westerly boundary of Yoho National Park, where it joins the new seventeen-mile extension from Golden.

The new road winds through one of the most picturesque sections of the park—filled with associations of Palliser, of Hector, of memories of empire builders and pioneers. Dark canyons, silvery falls, green-white rivers beckon.

Winding out of Field, the C.P.R. station for Emerald Lake, where the traveler turns his watch back an hour, and over the Kicking Horse River, the road follows the Emerald Lake trail for some miles while a wonderful view of the valley unrolls. It passes deserted cabins, Indian graves and an old German interne camp. After leaving Ottertail on the Canadian Pacific Railway it continues around the foot of Mount Vaux and finally reaches Leanchoil. Here a branching road of a mile or so reveals the Kicking Horse Falls, a fishermen's paradise in a setting of beautiful jagged peaks. The road winds on through the deep pass of the Kicking Horse to Golden on the banks of the Columbia River.

The construction of the Field-Golden highway presented some very difficult engineering problems on account of the steepness of the slopes of the side hills. A good deal of excavation had to be done in solid rock. The probable cost of the new highway on account of the difficult topography encountered is estimated at $24,000 per mile.

There will be inaugurated this Summer a three-day circle tour from Banff and Lake Louise, covering the first day, the most picturesque section of the Banff-Windermere road, the second, the section between Radium Hot Springs to Emerald Lake by way of Golden and Leanchoil, and returning the third day to Banff and Lake Louise.

It should only be a short time now before the whole of Canada's mountain world is opened up to the motorist. From Golden to Revelstoke is the last uncompleted link of the first great transcontinental motor road. The distance in all is ninety miles, but short perfect roads have already been built from town to town on the route. There is an old railway grade available for a distance of about ten miles. It is estimated that there is only fifty-seven miles of road remaining to complete direct connection across Canada.

CAPITOL LACROSSE CLUB NAMES HEAD

W. R. MacMillam, Veteran of the Game Is President—Alex. Stevens Will Manage Club This Year

W. R. MacMillan, veteran of the gutted stick game, was elected as president of the Capitol Lacrosse Club at a meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. last night. Everett Taylor, who has played almost every position on a lacrosse team at one time or the other, was elected as secretary-treasurer.

Alex. Stevens, who has managed lacrosse teams for a number of years, was elected to the managerial role of the Capitol Club, an announcement which followers of the game will welcome.

"Cotton" Brynjolfson, "Sugar" McDougall, with the president, secretary and manager form the executive of the club.

Last night's meeting was well attended and, if numbers speak for the success that is expected to crown the Capitol Club and lacrosse generally in this city, it begins to look as if Canada's national game is due for a big comeback this Summer.

It is expected to open the senior league, which is comprised of the Capitols and Sidney, with a game on May 24. These clubs are considered to be at their strongest this season and some real lacrosse battles should be witnessed when they meet.

Mr. Lepnard Tait, and manager Alex. Stevens were elected as grounds committee to make arrangements for the use of the Royal Athletic Park.

The matter of entering an all-star Victoria team in the British Columbia championship was discussed very thoroughly last night and it is hoped to make it a reality this year.

COST OF BRIBERY HALTS DISTILLER

PROCESS TOO EXPENSIVE TO ADOPT, ONTARIO LIQUOR MAN DECIDES

Federal Customs Commission Ends Windsor Sittings—Inquiry Will Resume Monday at Hamilton

WINDSOR, Ont., May 6.—Sittings of the Royal Customs commission in Windsor concluded this afternoon. The commission moves to Hamilton, where sittings will open on Monday morning.

Examination of Harry Lowe, vice-president of the Carling Brewery and Malting Company, with respect to the alleged "camouflaging" and "switching" of beer-laden cars so that they would make their way into the United States, occupied a large part of the final afternoon sitting. Mr. Lowe admitted that he had consulted two railway yard officials with a view to finding out how cars of beer could be moved into the United States, but he insisted that he had never moved any cars.

BRIBERY TOO COSTLY

He had come to the conclusion that the process of bribery, which he claimed had been outlined to him by one of these officials, was too expensive to make the movement profitable. He said that if he had discovered that the move could have been accomplished legally and without too much cost, he might have gone into it.

The two railwaymen, he said, were a former yardmaster, Hawker, of the C.P.R., and Yardmaster McGowan, of the Michigan Central.

He said it was impossible to run cars into the United States because the C.P.R. did not cross the border. However, according to the witness, Hawker agreed to approach McGowan and did so. Later, said Lowe, he and Hawker saw McGowan, who "suggested a number of ways" beer could be shipped as laths or other commodities.

PLAN REJECTED

"I told him it could not be done that way," Mr. Lowe told the court.

Then, he continued, McGowan suggested shipping in empty cars running from one point in the United States across Southern Ontario to another point in the United States. However, when he found how many railway officials he would have to bribe, he decided it was impossible to go in for the business.

Mr. Lowe denied knowledge of alleged shipments of beer from Carlings as "milk," "canned goods," or "sugar."

Today the commission announced that F. Savard, United States importer of Canadian liquor, would be given another week in which to appear.

Farmer: "Thought you said you had ploughed the ten-acre field?"

Ploughman: "No I only said I was thinking about ploughing it."

"Oh, I see; you've merely turned it over in your mind!"

"PEOPLE'S STAGE" IN GERMANY POPULAR

Presents Plays of High Standard at Low Cost and With No Seats Reserved

BERLIN, May 5.—The Volksbuehne (People's Stage) is one of the most important factors in German theatrical life. Established with the idea of giving the best in drama at reasonable admission prices, it found an immediate response and has grown lustily ever since. Even before the Great War, it was able to build the large and beautiful Volksbuehne Theatre am Buelowplats. Then, in 1920, it took another leap forward and brought its subscription list up to 200,000. As a result its original home (although it seats over two thousand) became too small and it added the Theatre am Schiffbauerdamm and the Thalia Theatre to its possessions. Now, also, at the state-owned Schiller Theatre and the Kroll Opera House, it takes over the whole auditorium twice a week.

This overwhelming success is due primarily to the splendid organization which makes it possible to give the subscription seats for one mark and a half (37 cents) for the operas. There are no specially reserved chairs, but as each subscriber comes to the theatre he draws a lot from an urn and this assigns him his place—perhaps in the front row of the orchestra, perhaps in the last row of the gallery. Strange that it took monarchistic Germany to evolve a system as completely democratic as this.

The quality of plays produced has been on an almost unbelievably high level. The programme has been erected on the foundation of the classics—Goethe, Schiller, Shakespeare, etc.—and modern literary plays, usually with a tendency toward the revolutionary; for instance, Toller's "Man and the Masses" and Lunarkscharsky's "Don Quichotte." This year Korki's "Night's Lodging" Moliere's "Miser," Ben Jonson's "Volpone," Aristophanes' "Lysistrata," Strindberg's "Dream Play" and Raynald's "Grave of the Unknown Soldier" have been put on and several standard German tragedies are announced for the Spring.

STARTS WITH DREAM

It all started with a dream of Dr. W. H. Atherton, who pleaded the cause of Shakespeare. He dreamed that he wandered in the lower strata of the Hall of Fame, and there sought out Dr. Johnson in the hope that the latter would tell him something authentic about Shakespeare. Johnson, in turn, wanted to know what all the row was about the Bard; and in order that he might be enlightened it was arranged that the Professor of English Literature of Montreal should stage a debate, with Dr. Johnson in the chair. Strangely enough, when he took the chair, and with it a cap and gown at the hands of Dr. Atherton, he was metamorphosed into John T. Hackett, K.C., Montreal lawyer. With him he brought James Boswell in the person of Dr. E. J. Mullally, and the Devil's Advocate was none other than Georgevitch Bernardovitch Shawvinski, who, through Arthur Phelan, K.C., pleaded his own supremacy over Shakespeare.

The argument of the Devil's Advocate that Shakespeare does not deserve the niche accorded him in the Hall of Fame, elicited the undisguised "pooh, poohs," of the opposing side, which appealed continually to the mature judgment of Dr. Johnson in the hope of arousing his sympathy for the cause of Shakespeare.

STATES HIS CASE

Mr. Phelan, with much humor, pleaded the side of the "antis" under three headings. First, that Shakespeare based nearly all his plays on the works of his predecessors; second, that he was a rank plagiarist, and third, that he was not superior to his contemporaries. Under the first head he sought to show that Shakespeare is tottering from the pedestal on which he has been placed by the propaganda of university professors; that he is no longer the original genius his worshippers believe him to be; that of his thirty-seven plays, fifteen or eighteen were remade from other plays and that the last vestige of originality left to him will disappear paradoxically, in the light of modern research.

The speaker presented an historical sketch of the theatre of Shakespeare's time and sought to show that many of the plays accredited to the poet were really the property of other actor-dramatists of the time. Shakespeare he described variously as an imposter, a thief-mechanic in the forge of literature, an unblushing plagiarist, a vulgar panderer to the groundlings. He stole deliberately from Kidd and Marlowe, from Peel and Green and Larch.

After quoting various modern writers in support of his contention, Mr. Phelan, claiming that he did not want to beat a dead horse, closed with the assertion that Shakespeare's vaunted claim to universality will eventually be shattered and his niche in the Hall of Fame occupied by a modern writer, more modest than the Bard, who is known to the world as C. B. S.

STANDS BY SHAKESPEARE

Dr. Atherton, in taking up the cudgels on behalf of Shakespeare, relied on the sanity and sincerity of Dr. Johnson for a verdict in favor of the poet. The arguments of his opponent, he said, fairly bristled with suggestion of falsehood and suppression of truth; the Devil's Advocate forgot the poet in thinking of the dramatist, and had presented a hypothetical argument altogether unsupported by the facts. He accepted the historical sketch laid out by his opponent, and made no denial of the assertion that Shakespeare renovated a number of old plays. But what a renovation! It was not so much a renovation as a re-creation. "If he did work over old plays," Dr. Atherton said, "he did it as others of his time did so; he did it as an artist might take the work of a pupil, touch it with his brush and make of it a masterpiece. That is not plagiarism; it is transformation. He transformed theatrical junk into dramatic masterpieces."

If Shakespeare were to be classed as a plagiarist, he continued, so also must Virgil and Homer, who went to others for their epic material. So also must Tennyson, who took the Arthurian legends and made of them the beautiful "Idylls of the King."

WOULD FORM SOCIETY

Dr. Atherton gave full credit to Shakespeare's contemporaries for being the equal of the poet—in kind, but not in degree. Historically, there was no doubt that he towered over his contemporaries, and in contrast with the descriptions of the Devil's Advocate, might be described as the great creator, the poet of humanity, whose creation, insight and sympathy placed him firmly on the pedestal which he has been accorded.

In closing, Dr. Atherton pleaded for the formation of a Shakespearean society in Montreal, and urged upon French-speaking members of the audience to read Emile Legouis' work on Shakespeare.

Champion Earns Draw

TORONTO, May 6.—Jackie Johnson, of Toronto, 123¾, bantamweight champion of Canada, and Pete Zivic, of Pittsburgh, 123¼, fought ten rounds to a draw here tonight.

The crowd booed the decision of the referee when he declared the bout a draw. Zivic, according to newspapermen at the ringside, won five of the ten rounds, while one went to the Canadian champion and the rest were considered even.

B.C. NATIVE SONS APPOINT OFFICERS

Mr. W. H. Kinsman, of Victoria, Chosen Grand Factor—Timber Destruction Opposed

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 6.—Officers were elected at the convention of the Grand Post of the Native Sons of British Columbia as follows:

Past grand factor, B. A. McKelvie, Vancouver; grand factor, W. H. Kinsman, Victoria; vice-grand factor, J. J. Johnston, New Westminster; grand secretary, Harold McDonald, Victoria; grand treasurer, J. C. McGregor, Vancouver; grand chaplain, J. P. Hampton Bole, Vancouver; grand historian, V. B. Harrison, Nanaimo; grand post deputies, W. H. Gardiner, Victoria; V. T. Shindler, Vancouver; J. P. R. McGill, Bella Coola and Milo Fougner, Bella Coola.

The convention passed a resolution strongly criticizing the Provincial Government for failing to prevent the destruction of the "green timbers" on the Pacific Highway and urging the Government to preserve other timber lands along scenic highways.

In the discussion preceding the passing of the resolution, regret was expressed at the intention of the Government to permit the raising of the level of Buttle Lake, which, it was stated, would result in the destruction of the scenic beauty of Strathcona National Park.

The Grand Post promised hearty support to the movement for the establishment of a national park in the Bella Coola district, to be named after Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the great explorer. Support was also promised to the residents of Bella Coola Valley in their efforts to have a road extended from that valley to connect with the Cariboo Road. The proposed new road, it was stated, would be of value in regard to settlement of the district and as a scenic highway.

ITALY EXPECTS OCEAN RECORDS

Naval Invention to Shorten Journey Between Genoa and New York Four Days, Mussolini Declares

WILL BE APPLIED TO NEW 50,000-TON SHIPS

Mussolini, hearing the fact deplored that America was still remote from Europe, remarked recently that in a short time Naples would probably be only four days' journey from New York, and Genoa eight days from Buenos Aires, thanks to the sensational discovery of an Italian naval engineer, which would give vessels an average speed of forty nautical miles an hour.

Mussolini, who declined to reveal the details of the invention, announced that it would be applied to two 50,000-ton steamships which were to be named the Dux and Rex and to cost 200 million lira each.

GREAT PROGRESS

It is in the North Atlantic sea lanes connecting European and New York that the greatest progress in ocean locomotion has been realized since the inauguration of regular traffic to and from the great seaport—that is, since the sailing from Havre for New York of the American brig Prince, with a passenger list of eighteen, in August, 1814.

The average crossing under sail at that time was thirty-five days from New York to Havre and forty-five days from Havre to New York, the difference in time being due to the prevalence of westerly winds. The clipper ships of the day, however, often made the crossing from New York to Havre, even under the most unfavorable conditions, in twenty days; and one in particular, the American ship Mercury, made it in thirteen.

LOWERS RECORD

In 1851 steamships with side paddles crossed to New York from the entrance to the English Channel (3,000 miles) in from thirteen to fifteen days. In 1864 the Washington, inaugurating mail service from Havre to New York (3,200 miles), crossed in thirteen days and twelve hours and returned in thirteen days. The screw steamship, Lo Normandie, lowered the record to nine days in 1883, and La Bourgogne to seven days and thirteen hours in 1886.

Thereafter the era of racing for crossing honors began. The Germans launched their famous Deutschland, which entered Southampton Roads flying a huge banner from the mainmast, bearing the inscription "Made in Germany" as a challenge to England. The Deutschland covered the 3,082 miles from Sandy Hook to Cherbourg in five days, eleven hours and five minutes at a speed of 23.51 miles an hour. This performance upset all the construction programmes then under way. England, her national pride at stake, answered the challenge with the Lusitania, which covered the 2,791 miles from Queenstown to New York in four days nineteen hours and fifty-two minutes at a speed of twenty-four miles an hour.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the dry dock at any tide, add 18.6 ft. to the height of high water as above given.

PATRICIA TO BE IDLE SOME TIME

REPLACEMENT OF PORT LOW-PRESSURE TURBINE ENGINE IN COAST YARDS IMPOSSIBLE

Negotiations Opened With Parsons Marine Steam Turbine Company for Equipment

The defect in the operating machinery of the Princess Patricia will keep her out of the Vancouver-Nanaimo run for several months.

It has not been found possible to obtain the necessary equipment in Pacific Coast yards, and the B.C. Steamship Service has opened negotiations with the Parsons Marine and Steam Turbine Company for the replacement of the port low-pressure turbine engine. If the turbine is built to the original specifications of the parent company, it is stated the necessary delay in delivery will be considerable.

Meanwhile the coast service will lose the use of the vessel, upon the reconditioning of which a great deal of money was expended last year, during the busiest part of the season. This loss, however, is declared to be inevitable.

The service will be maintained during the season by the Motor Princess and the Charmer. The vacancy created by the transfer of the Charmer will be filled by the Island Princess on the Gulf Islands route.

TRAFFIC AT BRITISH PORTS DURING 1926

Increase of 9,025,000 Tons Shown Over 1925—Drop in Clearances With Cargo on Most Routes

The net tonnage of vessels in the foreign trade which entered British ports with cargoes in 1926 showed an increase of 9,025,000 tons, or 17 per cent over 1925, whereas the net tonnage of such vessels clearing from British ports showed a decrease of 14,463,000 tons, or 25 per cent. These figures, writes Vice-Consul Daniel Miller, London, reflect the import of foreign coal, the cessation of the export coal trade for the six or seven months of the strike, and the decrease in general exports due to the effect on other industries of the coal stoppage.

In both entrances and clearances, Great Britain in 1926 maintained approximately the same relation to the trend of total traffic as in 1925.

U.S. SHOWS NET GAIN

The United States showed a net gain, though not a relative gain, on entrances at British ports, accounting for 2,679,629 tons in 1926 as against 2,540,657 tons in 1925—an increase of 138,972 tons. On clearances, however, there was a net loss and a relative gain, the total in 1926 being 1,547,080 tons as compared with 1,616,468 tons in 1925. This is a decrease of 69,388 tons only, whereas a relative decrease would have involved some 349,000 tons. The figures indicate that the improvement shown in 1925 on outward cargoes continued to be well maintained in 1926.

INCREASE IN ENTRANCES

Practically all the increase in entrances is represented by vessels bringing cargo from Northern Europe and from the Atlantic coast of North America, though slight additions were made on Australasian, South American Atlantic and North American Pacific routes.

The drop in clearances with cargo was manifested on every trade route except that to Australasia; there the increase was very slight. The clearance losses were extremely heavy on all European routes and were quite considerable on routes to the Atlantic coast of South America.

Entrances and clearances with cargo at British ports during 1926, by principal trade routes, in net tonnage are as follows:

Trade Route—	1926 Entered	1926 Cleared
Northern Europe (foreign)	19,813,847	11,915,265
Europe (Atlantic and west Mediterranean countries)	6,898,148	8,252,126
Central and eastern Mediterranean countries	1,453,658	2,866,122
West and South Africa	1,406,231	1,490,837
East Africa, Persian Gulf, and India	3,218,817	2,522,774
Eastern Asia and Islands in the Pacific	1,790,518	1,802,777
Australasia	2,471,709	1,875,835
North America (Atlantic Coast)	17,557,025	10,734,762
West Indies and Central America (Atlantic Coast)	1,097,045	667,723
South America (Atlantic Coast)	2,850,410	2,647,204
South and Central America (Pacific Coast)	481,751	363,783
North America (Pacific Coast)	1,300,533	334,543
Other areas	238,467	1,398

Refugees from trouble zones in China will predominate among the 1,130 travellers who will reach here Sunday morning at 7 o'clock by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia, due to reach the William Head quarantine station at 5 o'clock in the morning. The Russia, which is running slightly ahead of her schedule by about one hour, is carrying 238 saloon passengers, 107 second, seventy third, and no less than 715 steerage, the largest number of steerage passengers she has carried since the mid-wartime period. The Russia is also loaded to the Plimsoll's mark with cargo, while her mail consignments are in excess of 1,250 bags.

BONDS REQUIRED ON LIQUOR SHIPMENTS

Changes in Customs Law Affect Liquor Carriers—Federal Officers Get Wide Powers

Vessels carrying liquor cargoes into Canadian ports will in future have to post a bond covering duty on the liquor cargo whether it is to be landed here in in transitu shipment or not, according to an amendment to the Customs Act of Canada enacted at the recent session of the Dominion Parliament.

Formerly it was possible for a ship carrying liquor from one foreign country to another via Canada to land the cargo at a Canadian port for transfer to another vessel. When this is done in future the owners of the ship must furnish the bonds of a certified guarantee company for double the amount of duty which would be levied on the liquor cargo. The bond may only be redeemed upon presentation of a certificate showing that the cargo has been landed at its port of destination.

This regulation will also apply to liquor carriers entering a Canadian port for shelter, provisions, repairs or any other reason.

It is contended that this legislation will discourage the smuggling of liquor into the United States.

Under recent amendments to the act a Customs officer, or person having the powers of a Customs officer, may arrest without warrant anyone found committing, or who is suspected of having committed, any offence designated indictable under the act.

Delay or nonpayment by an owner of post entry for duty on shipments of goods coming into Canada will henceforth empower the Customs Department to exercise a lien on any subsequent shipments imported by that owner. In cases where a sight entry is given for goods where the invoice for description of the goods is not available, the owner is subject to penalty in the event of his not producing the original invoice within the proper time allowed.

Under the amendments, all property of passengers and crew, with the exception of wearing apparel, must now be shown on the report of the master of an inbound vessel.

Princess Alice Carries Cameramen To the Yukon

VANCOUVER, May 6.—Considerable progress is reported from the Yukon territory in the making of the motion picture depicting "the trail of '98."

On her recent trip to Skagway the Princess Alice carried seven cameramen, while on May 22 the Alice will carry a further contingent of operators in readiness for the shooting of the White Horse Rapids round about May 22, by twelve boats, fashioned after the boats of pioneer days, which are now in course of construction at Lake Bennett.

The picture, it is stated, will end up with a spectacular arrival of the pioneers at Dawson.

Special Attractions On Ss. Ile de France

Among the special attractions of the new 41,000-ton passenger liner "Ile de France," nearing completion at St. Nazaire, the following are emphasized by the company: The largest bar on any ocean liner, a sidewalk, cafe, a sixty-car garage, a magnificent and complete chapel, a dozen shops, branches of famous Paris establishments, a shooting gallery, a playground for children, a gymnasium and an unusually fine collection of examples of modern art.

CRUISER TO BE STATIONED HERE

Will Be One of Two Ordered by Ottawa Government to Stop Operations of Liquor Smugglers

FLEET OF AUTOS TO BE INCREASED

Contracts will be awarded next week at Ottawa for a number of fast motor cruisers and launches for the excise and customs preventive service on the Great Lakes and the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. At the same time a number of high-powered motor cars for the same service will be purchased.

Tenders are being called for two fast preventive service cruisers, one for the Atlantic and the other for the Pacific. During the last session the Dominion House voted an additional million dollars to eradicate smuggling, and these cars, launches and cruisers are a part of the new service to be inaugurated to accomplish this. A number of extra preventive service officials also will be engaged.

SERVICE STRENGTHENED

VANCOUVER, May 6.—Although reports from the East indicate that the reorganization and strengthening of the special preventive service of the Customs Department is under way at some of the large Eastern ports, no word has been received here yet of any steps being taken in this Province. Hon. W. D. Euler, the new Minister of Customs, obtained a substantially increased appropriation from Parliament for this purpose and a number of appointments have been made in the East increasing the personnel.

At the sittings of the customs inquiry commission here Special Officers J. C. Barton and N. J. de Graves did not ask for additional staff but strongly urged the necessity of the service being equipped with new boats suited for the needs of the situation here. Their chief problems are connected with liquor and narcotic drug smuggling, for which purposes, they told the commission, they required a stout, seaworthy boat for service in the stormy waters off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

They also asked for a high-powered speedboat for their work in the Gulf Islands, where the smugglers are able to get away from anything but the very swiftest craft.

NEW WESTMINSTER CROWNS MAY QUEEN

Miss Alice Groves Assumes Holiday Throne in Presence of 15,000 Persons—57th Ruler

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 6.—In the presence of over 15,000 of her loyal subjects, Miss Alice Groves was today crowned Queen of the May at the fifty-seventh annual May Day celebration of the Royal City.

Amid the cheers of the large gathering, Miss Groves was officially designated queen by Miss Norah Turner, who was elected in 1926 as the presiding ruler of the Maytime festival in that year. The crowds who witnessed the picturesque ceremonies acclaimed today's celebration as the most successful ever held in the city's history. Residents of all portions of the Fraser Valley were present and added their plaudits as Queen Alice was crowned.

An excellent parade was held to Queen's Park, where a varied programme was provided, which met with enthusiastic approbation. The spectacular flag drill presented by the scholars of various local schools was the finest that has been seen here in years. Maypole and folk dancing was liberally applauded while the Sea Cadets and the Technical School Cadets scored with their display of their respective exercises. Over 1,800 children took part in the celebration.

Delegates of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of British Columbia, now in convention here, participated in the festivities.

Pains of Neuritis Quickly Relieved

Convincing Proof That Nerviline Is the Best Treatment

NORTHFIELD STATION, May 2.—No stronger liniment than Nerviline exists, in the opinion of Mrs. Ruby Stata, of this town. "For years," states Mrs. Stata, "I suffered from neuritis. I tried nearly everything, but to no avail, so finally, when reading about how good Nerviline was, I decided to try it. I found Nerviline relieved the sharp pains immediately. It is the quickest relief, the surest remedy for me. It beats all other liniments; it is excellent."—Mrs. Ruby Stata.

You can scarcely find anyone that will not tell you about the pain-relieving power of Nerviline. There is hardly an ache or pain that it will not relieve immediately. Nerviline is an anchor of health in every household. Try a 35c bottle. (Advt.)

At the Playhouses

DOMINION THEATRE General Sir H. L. Smith-Dorrien, who commanded the 2nd army of the British Expeditionary Force, appears in the film "Mons," shown at the Dominion Theatre, plays over again the part he went through in real earnest twelve years ago. A mareh past of the troops is shown and Sir Horace broke a holiday in France specially to accept an invitation to appear. It is believed that the uniform he wore for the film is the identical one which he wore during those critical days of the war.

COLISEUM THEATRE At the Coliseum today is offered a wonderful bill of good feature films, and a stage presentation. Joe Evans and his company head the list with the bright musical comedy, "Her Ladyship," and a better laugh getter could not be found. Joe Evans, as the proud, haughty titled Lady Joynson de Joynson, is irresistibly funny, and the laughs come thick and fast, culminating in one long roar as the curtain falls. This will suit lovers of good, clean comedy and catchy songs. On the screen are Bebe Daniels in "The Splendid Crime" and Pola Negri in "The Crown of Lies."

VARIETY THEATRE Matheson Lang tells a delightful story against himself. With Mrs. Lang he was on a visit to his cousin, the Archbishop of York, who met them at the station. While being driven to Bishopthorp, the Archbishop entertained them with stories told in the broadest Yorkshire dialect, and with gestures which Mrs. Lang appreciated so thoroughly that she silly remarked, "You are a much better actor than my husband." Matheson Lang will be seen on the Variety Theatre screen today for the last time in "The Wandering Jew."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE There is a novel twist to the plot of "Ladies at Play," First National's comedy-drama, featuring Doris Kenyon, Lloyd Hughes and Louise Fazenda, showing for the last times tonight at the Playhouse Theatre. The heroine inherits six million dollars only if she marries a man who meets the approval of her two disinherited, disgruntled, Puritanical maiden aunts. Of course, the aunts do not want her to get the fortune, so it's a battle of wits, in which the heroine wins after many dramatic—and often very funny—failures.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Hoot Gibson introduces a new steed to the screen in "The Texas Streak," the Universal-Jewel, of which he is the star, which shows for the last times today at the Columbia Theatre. Its temporary name is "Mutt," and it's a palomena. Hoot is training it in the ways of the movies, and intends to make it his permanent mount for all future film work. "Mutt," probably will be renamed for screen purposes, as are most living things—man or beast—which appear in pictures. "Mutt" replaces "Pride o' Palomar," which appeared with Gibson in all his pictures.

CAPITOL THEATRE The stage attractions will be presented three times today at the Capitol Theatre in conjunction with the showing of the great comedy-farce, "Getting Gertie's Garter," starring Marie Prevost. The headliner offers Chief Eagle Feather, the famous Indian tap Gertie's Garter," starring Marie Pretine, comediennes, are presenting a novelty akit entitled "No Fooling." The new Metropolitan comedy production, "Getting Gertie's Garter," starring Marie Prevost and featuring Charles Ray as leading man, now playing at the Capitol Theatre, was directed by E. Mason Hopper, who was responsible for "Up in Mabel's Room." The picture is said to be delightful in every respect. Harry Myers, Sally Rand, Fritzi Ridgsway, Franklin Pangborn, Lila Leslie and Del Henderson are in the supporting cast.

MINING MEN TO VISIT STEWART

CHANGE MADE IN ITINERARY OF DELEGATES TO EMPIRE METALLURGICAL CONGRESS

Visitors Will Be Entertained at Government House Here—Will Hold Technical Session

Members of the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress who are coming to the Pacific Coast, will visit the Portland Canal mining district and make an inspection of the leading mines in that part of the Province.

The original plans had been prepared so that following the meetings in the eastern parts of Canada the section of the congress that came on the Pacific Coast would pay a visit to Vancouver and Victoria and also inspect the Britannia Mines. Following that the party would proceed by special train to Jasper Park.

It was felt by those interested in the industry that the opportunity should not be passed of inducing the visitors, who will include many of the most noted mining authorities in the world, to pay a visit to Stewart. Mr. Mortimer Lamb, of the Canadian Mining Institute, has been very active in this connection and with the support of the Department of Mines of the Province has succeeded in having the change of itinerary made.

Yesterday Mr. George C. Riley, chairman of the main committee of the Congress, was in the city and had a conference with Hon. A. M. Manson and Hon. J. H. MacLean, with the result that it was decided to have the alteration made in the programme for this Province.

HAVE SPECIAL BOAT

The party will proceed from Vancouver by special boat to Britannia mines, then cross to Chemainus to visit the new lumber mill there, and arrive in Victoria the evening of September 16. The visitors will be entertained the following day at Government House by Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce, himself a leading mining man of the Province. There will be a technical session here during the day, and the party will start east to Vancouver that night.

"The Congress has focussed on Canada the attention of 100,000 leading men in the mining industry over the world," Mr. Riley said. "Of the number coming 317 are from Great Britain, ninety-five from the United States and South America, ninety from Africa, twenty from Asia, and sixteen from Australia. In arranging the meetings we have been in touch with 15,000 persons in eighty-eight countries and have sent out over 120,000 letters. The Congress will spend as much time in British Columbia as in any other Province of Canada."

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

HAPPINESS IS THE ONLY GOAL

We stumble through life more or less haphazardly, blindly searching for things and experiences which will make us happy. So often we plan too far in the future and expect to find happiness at some distant time when we will have acquired enough money, secured a certain position, or achieved some desired success.

An important truth to remember is that now is the only time in which we ever will be happy—that is, the actual ever-present now, with its problems and its opportunities. There may be a certain degree of satisfaction in day-dreaming and building air castles, but the every-day problems of the now furnish us the only real material for the enjoyment of happiness.

Many people waste their opportunities, day after day, hoping that in some far distant future they will be rewarded for all the misery they are experiencing now. Most people spend a lifetime planning for old age, laying up treasures to be enjoyed after fifty or sixty years of hard work. Such people seldom reach these ages. Their goal of happiness may indeed lie beyond the grave, but the better part of wisdom would be for each one to wholesomely enjoy every moment of the ever-present now.

It is often said that there can be no real happiness without health. It is, therefore, folly for one to attempt to pile up a fortune and often thereby ruin his health so that mature age is never reached or cannot be really enjoyed by one who has not learned to live as he goes along through life.

A great deal more joy can be had out of life as we are living it if we learn how to take care of ourselves and practice certain rules of healthful living. The results are only meagre, however, compared to those we can receive if we pass along any helpful ideas to others who are also struggling for happiness through good health.

You, who are reading these health lessons every day, will find great benefit from following the principles which I am advocating. The rules I give you for right living have been accumulated from my own experience and the experience of others. My greatest joy in life is to pass these experiences on to you, hoping you will benefit by them. You will find your pleasure in life and living will be enormously increased if you will also pass these good ideas on to your friends. Everyone about you is sick of suffering from some ailment and you will be surprised to find how much joy you can get out of teaching others the simple health rules which I am daily teaching you.

Appoint yourself an apostle of health, learn how to live right, and while not forcing your ideas upon others, learn the satisfaction which comes from teaching those who are eager to learn more about healthful living.

GOOD OR BAD

YOU can learn the auto trade the practical way and become an expert mechanic, which is good. Or you can read a lot of books and think you know it, which is bad for yourself and for the man you work for. Practical training makes you an expert—lectures and books never. We could make more money by teaching you with lectures and save the thousands of dollars we have invested in equipment, but we could not make you expert mechanics. OAK BAY

We specialize in Oak Bay and have complete listings in this most desirable residential district. We advise the following:

FAR BELOW ITS VALUE

GOOD SIX-ROOMED BUNGALOWS are scarce in Oak Bay and they certainly cannot be built for $5,000 with lots going up in price. This house has drawing-room opening into dining-room opening into kitchen on the right of the hall. Fireplace in the dining-room. Built-in bookcase and buffet. Three bedrooms, separate bath and toilet. Full-sized concrete basement with hot air furnace and laundry tubs. Garage. This house is particularly well built and in A1 condition. It faces southeast and commands a fine sea view. Price $5000

WATERFRONT

SEVEN ROOMS. On the waterfront near the Oak Bay Hotel. Drawing-room and dining-room overlook the Strait and offer a fine view. Kitchen, pantry, two bedrooms and small breakfast-room complete the downstairs. Price and terms on personal application only.

A SELF-SUPPORTING HOME

WITHIN HALF A MILE OF THE SEA and standing on an acre of very fine soil is situated this attractive five-room frame bungalow. Fully modern in every respect. The garden has been well kept up and the small fruits are some of the finest on the Island and are in sufficient quantities to more than pay the taxes and upkeep of both house and grounds. The price of $10,000 may at first appear high, but when the size and condition of the grounds are considered, it is reasonable.

SHELBOURNE STREET — Absolutely new four-roomed stucco bungalow, furnace, all built-in features. Only $2750

BRIGHTON AVENUE—Eight rooms and large sunroom, open fireplaces, furnace, etc. A splendid home for a family at only $3600

SEATTLE WOMAN HIT BY BULLET

Wife of Adventist Clergyman Slightly Wounded During Outlaw Attack in Palestine

JERUSALEM, May 6.—An American woman, Mrs. Pettit, described as the wife of an "Adventist" bishop, was slightly wounded in the throat and shoulder by a bullet last night during a bandit attack in "The Valley of Robbers." Her home address was given as No. 11 Fourteenth Avenue North, Seattle.

Mrs. Pettit was on her way to join her husband in Burka. She received treatment at the Government hospital here. The bullet grazed her throat and shoulders.

SEATTLE, May 6.—The Rev. W. Pettit and his wife, who was reported wounded by bandits' bullets in Palestine, left March 1 for Rangoon, Burma, where he is to do mission work. Pettit was pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist Church here more than six years. In going to Rangoon the pair were to visit Bombay, India, where the pastor worked six years as a missionary. They planned to stay in Burma about five years.

C.P.R. CHECKERS AND COOPERS MAY HAVE INCREASE IN WAGES

OTTAWA, May 6.—An increase to checkers and coopers is recommended in an unanimous report of the conciliation board appointed to consider disputes between the Shipping Federation of Canada and the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited, and checkers and coopers in their employ.

The report, which is made public this morning by the Department of Labor, recommends that the increase should come into effect from April 30 last. No finding is made in regard to a demand of the employees regarding contract and working conditions. On this point the report makes the following comment:

"With respect, however, to that feature of the demand of the employees which has regard to contract and working conditions, the board feels that in view of the attitude of the employers it would neither be useful nor constructive to make any finding. The board therefore unanimously recommends accordingly."

Court Sustains Seizure Of Ships in Nova Scotia

OTTAWA, May 6.—Judge Audette, of the Exchequer Court of Canada, has rendered judgment maintaining the customs seizure of the schooner St. Clair Theriault and the United States steamer Saul, charged with liquor smuggling.

The Theriault had sailed from Shelbourne, N.S., with liquor ostensibly for Havana. Along with the Seal she was later seized at Jordan, N.S., within the three-mile limit. The Seal, it was alleged, had on board liquor taken from the Theriault.

NORTH COWICHAN LOSES ITS CLERK

Suggestion Has Been Made to Rebuild Memorial Cairn on Mount Prevost

DUNCAN, May 6.—A short meeting of the North Cowichan Council was held here yesterday, Reeve Evans presiding and the whole Council being present.

The resignation of Mr. C. S. Crane, the municipal clerk, who has been on leave of absence for some months owing to ill health, was received and accepted with regret. A resolution expressing the Council's appreciation of his efficient services in the past was unanimously passed.

A resolution guaranteeing to make up the total subscriptions to the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation celebration to the amount of $1000, provided the amount of their subscription does not exceed $200, was passed.

Councillor Price, chairman of the Council's cairn committee, reported a conference held with a committee from the Canadian Legion regarding the rebuilding of the soldiers' memorial cairn on Mount Prevost. He urged that the Council fulfill their obligations in this connection. After some discussion, in which it was advocated that proper plans and specifications for a substantial and lasting cairn, together with an estimate of cost, should be prepared, no action was taken but the matter will be gone into further at a future meeting of the Council.

SOLARIUM WORK IS DESCRIBED

Mrs. Campbell Speaks at Courtenay On Behalf of Institution's Efforts

COURTENAY, May 5.—An interesting meeting was held in St. George's United Church on Monday evening, when Mrs. Campbell, of Esquimalt, president of the Lilhad Women's Institutes, gave an illustrated lecture on the Solarium, and the work at Mill Bay.

She outlined the steps that led up to the establishing of the Solarium and how it was the receiving of a pathetic letter from a mother of a crippled child which led to the forming of a fund called the Othoa Scott Fund, and later the idea of the Solarium developed. It was decided in 1925 to raise funds to put up the buildings, and in two short years the money was raised, the building erected, and was opened on March 1, 1927, when ten crippled children were received. There are now thirty-one children there, and it is expected that all beds will be filled soon now, making a total of fifty children there. They have applications for another fifty, but have not accommodation for them.

Considerable improvement can be seen in some of the children admitted on March 1. Sunshine, sea air and proper nursing, food, etc., will make most of these children strong and well. They are taught by a teacher specially trained so that most of the children should become self-supporting later on. Boys up to twelve years and girls up to fourteen are admitted, and taken care of until cured, and the authorities will be pleased to receive word of any children who are crippled.

A collection was taken up at the meeting, which will be placed in the Othoa Scott Fund to aid these children. Another meeting has been arranged for at Campbell River and probably one will be held at Lazo.

Season Delayed In Sayward Valley

SAYWARD, May 6.—The weather continues very cold, with considerable rain. Fruit tree blossoms are very late on account of the cold. There were several heavy frosts during the past week, but grass and grains are making excellent growth.

P.C. Dawson, of the Provincial Police, paid a visit to the Valley this week. Mr. Dawson was accompanied by Lieutenant Craig, of Campbell River. While in the Valley he met several of his old comrades of the 102nd. Lieutenant Craig, after taking a trip through the developed portion of the Valley, was loud in his praise of the scenery, and the large area of choice lands available for agricultural development.

Board Receives Teacher's Resignation

NANAIMO, May 6.—The Nanaimo School Board met last evening and received with regret the resignation of Miss Mary Wilson, teacher of the fifth grade, Quennell School, the resignation to take effect at the end of June. Miss Wilson has accepted a position as physical director of girls in Templeton Junior High School, Vancouver.

At the previous meeting of the board a resolution had been passed to the effect that the board recommended the vaccination of all teachers on the staff. Last evening Trustee Mrs. Barnard asked that it be noted on the minutes that she had taken exception to the resolution, being herself a conscientious objector to vaccination. The minutes were amended as requested.

The school nurse's report stated that the health of the pupils was much improved since the last meeting, very little sickness being reported.

Septuagenarian Dies

NANAIMO, May 6.—Peter O'Brien, seventy, passed away at his home, Cedar District, at 10 o'clock Thursday evening, after a lengthy illness. The late Mr. O'Brien had resided in the district for fifty years. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. George Cavin, of Vancouver, and Mrs. M. McCabe, of Victoria. Pending funeral arrangements, the remains repose at D. J. Jenkins, Limited, Chapel.

CIRCUS UP-ISLAND

Several up-Island communities are to see a circus again in the next few days. The Conklin & Garrett All-Canadian Circus was brought over to Nanoose Bay yesterday, and appearances in Courtenay, Ladysmith and Duncan are planned, and possibly elsewhere.

Shirley Residents See Orchard Practice

SHIRLEY, May 6.—An interesting and instructive demonstration of pruning, grafting and budding was given by Mr. E. W. White, Provincial Horticulturist, at "Invermuir" orchard yesterday afternoon, when seventeen residents assembled for the occasion. Many questions were asked and an active interest was taken in the whole demonstration. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. White at its conclusion. The Shirley Women's Institute entertained the company to tea before they left for their homes.

The Shirley Women's Institute held a meeting at the house of Mrs. Edwin Clark on Wednesday afternoon to elect a delegate to the Provincial conference at Chilliwack, to be held this month. Mrs. N. E. Milligan was chosen to represent the institute.

Cowichan Bay News

Mr. H. W. May, of Cowichan Station, has had a nine-hole golf course laid out on his property. He has now a flock of sheep running on the course while the greens are being prepared. This will be a great attraction to the golfers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gross motored from Seattle and are staying at the Cowichan Bay Inn.

Mr. Robert MacAdam attended the Tulip Festival in Bellingham.

Capt. Watson, of Resthaven, with his launch the "Kangaroo" anchored in the Bay after an absence of several months.

Mrs. Agnes Hamilton, of Chilliwack, arrived here Tuesday to spend a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Ivan Beecroft.

Fishing is again very good here, several springs and grilse have been caught, also some very large cod.

Strike of Good Ore Is Reported From Independence Mine

Quick results are being obtained in the lower tunnel of the Independence mine at Stewart, according to the superintendent, Mr. J. L. Swanson, who came down this week to buy more stock, says The Portland Canal News. The tunnel, he said, had been driven 170 feet and for the last fourteen feet had been crossing the vein at an angle; in this distance ten feet of the vein is decomposed material with scattered kidneys and bands of galena, and four feet of solid galena, which has the appearance of high-grade. This strike is made at a depth below the upper tunnel of 190 feet and 600 feet down the hill from the vein outcrop.

Mr. S. P. Fitzgerald, president of the company, is now more confident than ever that the Independence will soon be producing on a large scale.

HEAVY SELLING CHECKS CLIMB

RELAPSE COMES AFTER SCORE OF ISSUES REACH NEW PEAKS

Marine Preferred Runs Up to 47—Chesapeake & Ohio Jumps Nearly Five Points to New High

NEW YORK, May 6.—Heavy week-end profit-taking, combined with sporadic bear selling, checked the upward movement of stock prices in today's market, but not until after more than a score of issues had been elevated to new high levels for the year or longer. Final quotations disclosed a fairly long list of gains, ranging from one to eight points, as well as a sprinkling of losses running from one to five points.

Call money held steady at four per cent all day, and there was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Marine preferred was bid up to a new high at 47¾, but dropped back to 45¼. Chesapeake & Ohio jumped nearly five points to a new 1927½ high. Baltimore & Ohio and Chicago & Northwestern preferred also reached new high ground.

Mack Trucks and Hudson led the advance in the motor group. General Motors closing only fractionally higher at 196½, after meeting with a large block of stock around its recent high of 198.

Buying in today's bond market was of a selective character, most of the limited activity being confined to a handful of issues. With continued easy money conditions, the general undertone was firm, with a few points of outstanding strength here and there.

There was a brisk demand for high-grade railway mortgages.

RICHMOND

And

SLOCAN KING

With huge bodies of high grade ore disclosed by exploration work in both properties, it is only a question of a short time until these mines are on a dividend-paying basis. That is why we strongly recommend an immediate purchase; before a more wide-spread appreciation of their possibilities raises prices to higher levels. Development of both properties is comparatively easy owing to adjacent mine workings being in close proximity or because other development work has already been carried out.

Richmond

For months it has been known that large bodies of high grade ore have been disclosed in two distinct sections of the Richmond properties. Now that the necessary machinery is on the way to Dawson to take care of production up to 500 tons a day, a steady demand for Richmond stock is evident in Spokane, Vancouver and the local exchanges. This is because the time is rapidly approaching when Richmond will become a dividend-payer on a far greater scale than ever before in the past history of the property.

Slocan King

From the No. 10 level of Silversmith the great Slocan ore body has been tunnelled into for a length of 450 feet, and work is still being carried on in ore. At the farther side of the property diamond drilling has also shown the existence of the downward extension of the Richmond-Eureka ore body, upon which work was stopped when boundary of the Slocan-King property was reached. Up to that time upwards of a million dollars gross was obtained from this vein on the Richmond-Eureka property.

NERVOUSNESS SEEN IN GRAIN MARKET

Prices Practically Unchanged After Most Erratic Session in Many Months at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, May 6.—The most erratic session in many months on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange ended today with prices unchanged to ¼ cent lower.

Shortly after the opening May boosted its gain 1⅝ cents to 154¾, and ten minutes later values slumped abruptly, with losses on the dip 2¼ cents below the high point.

Nervousness prevailed throughout the day and prices were easily influenced. The volume of business done was moderate, operations chiefly being of a profit-taking nature.

On the coarse grain markets flax underwent a 3-cent decline, while oats and barley held firm.

On the bulge today May wheat reflected an advance of 14¾ cents since bullish sentiment seized the market on April 10.

Winnipeg Grain Letter

(Supplied by R. P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, May 6.—May wheat prices were forced 1⅝ higher at the start by local bull enthusiasts, this future reaching 154¾, the price peak for the year. The market, however, quickly turned reactionary and sold off rapidly, there being rather heavy selling of both May and July on the bulge, and buying power failed to appear in any volume. Before the decline was checked May had fallen to 151⅝. There was a fair class of buying on the dips, the market seeming to run into export buying, but liquidation was fairly general at times. Exports overnight were small and Liverpool was stronger, although not discounting our advance of yesterday. The enquiry from the Continent was quiet. The big advance of nine cents in the past four days has been largely due to unfavorable weather, a good deal of unduing of spreads between Winnipeg and Chicago and much short covering and a moderate export business and the advance has been continuous and rapid. With the Spring season late in this country and the Winter wheat crop still in the making, the tendency is to buy on breaks until new crop situation becomes more clearly defined. Weather was clear this morning, and the forecast promises fine weather with a little higher temperature. Winnipeg futures closed unchanged to ¼ lower. The local demand for cash wheat was quiet and spreads inclined to be easier.

Coarse Grains—The feature of this market today was the excellent buying of oats, this market closing from 2¼ to 1½ up in the old crop futures. May barley was steady, closing ⅛ lower, while the July finished one cent higher and October ⅝ up. There was not a large trade but a good demand for July barley.

Flax: Firm, with crushers buying moderately and offerings light.

Chicago Grain

(Supplied by B.C. Bond Corpn., Ltd.)

CHICAGO, May 6.—Sentiment among the wheat traders was less bullish as the result of the prospect of legislation of the Board and the strength which has been in evidence of late was absent. There were further rains in the American Northwest with the forecast for fair and warmer. A weakened technical position was disclosed when longs started to sell, and support was lacking until buying developed against bids, but wheat maintained a rather heavy undertone to the last with weakness on the Winnipeg market a factor, the latter market breaking sharply. There was some buying on the break by locals, who sold out on yesterday's bulge. Export sales at the seaboard were 250,000 to 300,000 bushels. Corn showed stubborn resistance to pressure and while averaging lower with wheat received good support on breaks despite the Springfield legislative situation. Rains over parts of the Belt, with forecast for showers had some effect on sentiment, but there was no apparent improvement in the shipping demand. Oats were weaker early, but more than recovered the decline, with July showing more strength. Liverpool is due to open unchanged to 1-6d higher on Saturday.
